Politician Doing Private Business In Touchy Spot

It may be legal, but is it ethical for a public official to do business with the governmental body he represents?

If the businessman decides in favor of "ethics," he can lose an important hunk of revenue.

The problem becomes even greater when the public official's firm is the only company which provides a service or type of goods.

The state auditor's office reports there have been many instances of conflict of interest.

In Custer County, a board member owned a grocery store which sold items to the county. Also, as a member of the county board of welfare, he authorized relief checks which were used at his store.

In another county, a commissioner was the only bulk gas distributor in the county so the county was faced with purchasing gas from him or going to another county to buy gas for road department vehicles.

It's A 'Big Problem'

The state auditor's office contends that county commissioners' doing work with their counties without benefit of contract or in excess of the statutory amount is a "big problem."

Francis Walls of the auditor's office said it is a problem "even if one assumes that it is morally right and not a conflict of interest."

There is also confusion over interpretation of the law, which provides that no county officer may be monetarily interested in or receive the benefit of county contracts exceeding $2,000 in any one year.

A bill, LB26, which would have amended the amount to $5,000, was recently killed in a legislative committee.

Lancaster County Atty. Ronald Lahners points to an attorney general's opinion in a 1969 Franklin County case. The opinion states that the commissioner must make more than $2,000 profit to be in violation of the law.

Profit Hard To Figure

Lahners indicated he disagrees with the opinion and noted the amount of profit is difficult to determine.

In contrast, State Auditor Ray A. C. Johnson's office says that in checking it has always looked at the actual dollar amount of business being done with the governmental body and not necessarily clear profit.

An example of the problem of subcontracting for goods and services and having available a very limited number of vendors can be shown in Lancaster County which has only two firms which repair large electric motors.

One of these firms is owned and operated by Lancaster County Commissioner Robert Colin, who says he doesn't think it is unethical to do business with the county "as long as everything is legitimate and above board."

Colin has indicated several times that he has given his company instructions to limit the work done for the county to the statutory $2,000 a year.

However, he said he has no way of knowing when a contractor brings work to his firm to be repaired for the county.

More Than $3,000 Last Year

Colin's firm was paid more than $3,000 in 1974 for repair of electric motors for the county, according to claims filed with the county clerk and a check with the contractor filing those claims.

Most of the claims were not actually filed by Colin Electric but by Midwest Plumbing and Heating.

Frank Martinez, president of Midwest Plumbing, said all his firm's electric motor work is done by Colin Electric.

Russell Benson, owner of Werner Electric Motor Service, said his business had not suffered substantially because his major competitor is also a county commissioner.

"It is a problem," he said, adding that he thinks it is "beneficial to be a politician."

In connection with the $2,000 statutory limit, Benson said, "There are a thousand ways to get around that."

County-City Building Supt. Henry Lorenz said he has no way of knowing who a contractor may hire to do work for that firm unless there is some notation on the claim, and Colin's company name did not appear on the Midwest claims.

Colin said that if $2,000 means "strictly profit we don't even come close to that."

However, Colin says he doesn't believe the statutory limit has hurt his business, and if so, only slightly.

However, some office holders feel that the limitation has hurt their private businesses.

'We Grin And Bear It'

Lee Kittell, president of J. J. Exon Co., said, "We grin and bear it."

Kittell said the day Exon was elected governor, he instructed the company not to sell anything to the State of Nebraska and the day he took office "he told us not to sell anything to the University of Nebraska."

The state and university represent about 25 to 30% of the potential business in Lincoln, Kittell said.

In response to questioning about rumors that Exon's firm does business with the state through other firms, State Purchasing Agent Charles Neal said, "We haven't bought five cents' worth of stuff from Exon" since he took office.

Neal said another office supply firm who has a contract with the state may be out of a particular item and may have to get it from another vendor.

"I have no way of knowing if that's going on," he said. In this regard, Kittell said that Exon Office Equipment doesn't know where supplies sold by Exon to other dealers go, but noted that "it's illegal for us not to sell to them (other dealers) if they ask us."

No City Problem Seen

Although there is no dollar limit on any elected official doing business with the City of Lincoln, it has not become a problem, according to City Purchasing Agent Wayne Harvey, who has observed the city's operation since 1938.

He said the city's only restriction is that an officeholder must file with the city clerk's office a declaration of the business interest he or she has.

For example, Harvey said, City Councilman F. R. "Bob" Skitya, who owns Bryant Heating and Air Conditioning, can bid on city projects and has done so but has never been successful while serving on the City Council.

Heidi Dies After Wish Fulfilled

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Heidi Biggs died Sunday less than an hour after returning from a trip that the cancer-stricken 14-year-old had called the "last wish dream vacation" she wanted before her death.

She died in the emergency room at Belleville Memorial Hospital at 9:14 a.m., a hospital spokesman said. She had been rushed by ambulance from Lambert International Airport in St. Louis, where her plane from Hawaii arrived at 8:15 a.m.

Doctors wanted the girl to go directly to the hospital but she insisted on going home. A few blocks from her home, she stopped breathing and the ambulance turned and headed for the hospital.

"I think she knew it was her time," Heidi's mother, Lucille Biggs, said in explaining why her daughter wanted to go home.

Heidi's sister Eva, 16, at first believed Heidi died in the ambulance. Eva, who was not in the ambulance, said she was told Heidi collapsed in the vehicle.

"She stopped breathing, and her arms fell down," Eva said. "They tried hitting her in the stomach to get her breathing again. But she was dead."

Hospital nursing supervisor Martha Spindler said Heidi still "had some cardiac action when she came in." But she added the girl "was essentially dead when she got here."

An emergency room attendant said attending physician Dr. R. Shively attributed death to "malignancy." Mrs. Spindler said a collapsed lung the girl suffered in Hawaii was a contributing factor but no autopsy was planned to learn the exact cause of death.

Heidi and her mother flew to Hawaii on Feb. 16 and the day after their arrival was undoubtedly Heidi's best day. She took a walk on Waikiki's main boulevard, rode horseback and managed some sunning and time in the water.

She found the horseback ride the most thrilling, she said, especially when she flicked the horse with the reins and "he took off a-running. That was really great."

But, after several days, Heidi got a cold and then suffered the collapsed lung. Her last week was spent with her mother in a hotel room, under heavy sedation for pain she said got a little worse every day.

When she was carried aboard the jetliner in Hawaii, she was pale, weak, and not up to talking — a far different child than the smiling and excited little girl who arrived in Honolulu two weeks earlier.

On board was Russell Penny of Sudbury, Ontario, who raised money for her trip after reading about her spinal-related malignancy, which was discovered last summer when she was examined after an auto accident. She had been given less than a year to live.

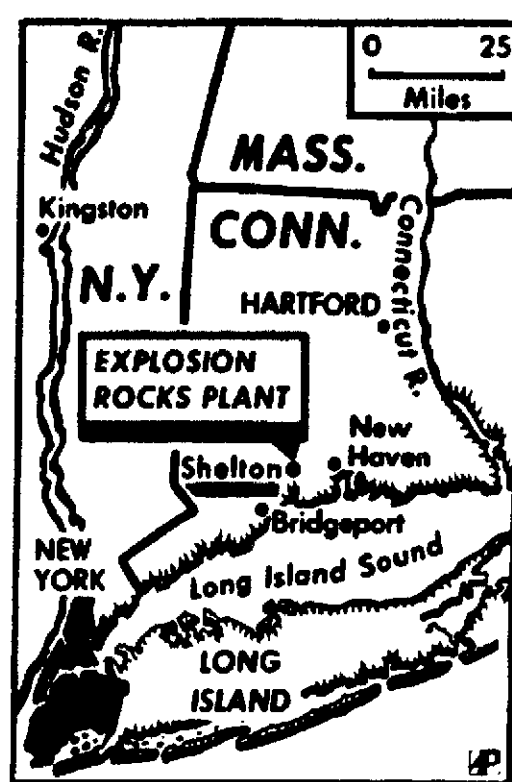

Penny visited Heidi, and she told him she had wanted to visit Hawaii since seeing a television advertisement but told no one because she knew her family couldn't afford the cost.

"I am completely shattered," Penny said of her death. "I felt so close to her."

Factory Intentionally Gutted

LOCATION... of rubber plant.

SHELTON, Conn. (AP) — A masked trio vowing to "wipe out the building" abducted three security guards at a rubber manufacturing plant an hour before the 2½-block structure was rocked by a series of explosions and gutted by fire.

The guards were released unharmed in a wooded picnic area a short time later Saturday night.

Guard Roy Ranno, 44, of Ansonia quoted one of the abductors as saying, "We're fed up with the shape of this country. We're going to wipe out the building."

Ranno, an employee at the plant for 24 years, said one of the men asked if he had ever heard of the Weathermen, now known as the Weather Underground. "Just what I read in the papers," Ranno replied.

"You will hear about them now," Ranno quoted the man as saying.

Thomas R. Duggan, an FBI spokesman in New Haven, said there was no evidence to tie the attack to the group, which has been connected with several previous bombings as antiwar protests.

Authorities refused to speculate on the motive for the attack.

The blasts, described by firemen as "three very large explosions," occurred about 11:30 p.m. at the Sponge Rubber Products Co.

There were no injuries, but damage estimates ran as high as $10 million.

Ranno said he and another guard, Al Hanley, were at the main door when the three men, one carrying a hand gun, came up from behind about 10 p.m. He said all the doors were locked and he didn't know how they gained entry to the building.

Ranno said the men asked if anyone else was in the building and were told there was a guard, Robert Dejoy of Seymour, in the boiler room.

Ranno and Hanley were handcuffed with their hands behind them and tape was placed over their eyes, Ranno said. One man watched them while the others got Dejoy, he said.

The guards were then taken to Ranno's car where they were ordered to lie down in the back seat as they drove around, Ranno said.

At Stevenson's Dam, a wooded picnic area off Route 34 in nearby Monroe, the guards were released after the handcuffs were removed and their hands taped, Ranno said.

He said the abductors left the car keys on the ground, and after the guards freed themselves from the tape, they went to a police station.

State police said that after leaving the guards the abductors apparently went back to the plant and set the explosions. But Ranno said he didn't believe the trio that abducted them would have had time to get back to the plant in time to set the explosions.

State police issued an all points bulletin for three white males wanted for arson, kidnapping and assault. The three were said to be in a rented truck.

Two cars were impounded Sunday morning and police said they believed one of the vehicles may have been used in the abduction.

No injuries were reported in the explosions and fire. Damage to the plant, which employs about 800, was estimated by state police at between $6 million and $10 million.

The mid-section of the structure was leveled, its steel twisted like pretzels, and the rest of the plant was gutted. Police and firemen counted three big explosions and occasional pops of explosions could be heard throughout the night.

Firemen used torches to cut metal doors to get at flames in one end of building.

Coal Transporter, Railroads Battle In Unicam

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

A four-letter word, coal, is generating some of the most intense lobbying of the 1975 Legislature.

The focus of the lobbying has been the Legislature's Public Works Committee which has yet to act on Sen. John Murphy's LB147, despite a public hearing that was held almost one month ago.

LB147 is a simple bill from a mechanical viewpoint; all it does is to add the word "coal" to Nebraska laws which grant condemnation powers to pipeline firms transporting natural gas, petroleum and ammonia.

But to say the issues underlying that seemingly innocent one word addition are just as simple would be an understatement.

The bill pits a newcomer to the Nebraska legislative scene, Energy Transportation Systems Inc. (ETSI) of San Francisco, against Nebraska's influential railroad lobby.

ETSI plans to pulverize 25 million tons of coal per year, mix it with water and pipe the slurry 1,036 miles from Wyoming to Arkansas.

To construct the pipeline, ETSI must gain permission from the railroads to construct the line beneath trackbeds. The railroads have refused to give the easements.

Coal can be shipped by pipeline at a fraction of the cost of rail transportation, ETSI has said, and create a savings for power utilities which will burn the coal.

Railroad spokesmen didn't dispute that claim at the public hearing but did warn that a loss of coal revenue will hurt the railroads' ability to ship other commodities.

Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora, chairman of the Public Works Committee, called LB147 "a major decision" the committee must make. As to how the committee will act on LB147, Kremer said he hasn't polled committee members and indicated last Thursday that a decision is "at least" 10 days away.

Answers Wanted

"We don't have all the answers we want," Kremer said. "We want to know the amount of power the booster stations will need to pipe the coal slurry. We want to know the amount of water that will be used for this line and the availability of water for other lines."

Kremer said there is also concern among Nebraska irrigators about a possible loss of groundwater in Nebraska. "We also want to check the railroads' claim that they can gear up to carry the coal," he said.

Kremer said the coal pipeline issue "could well be the subject of an interim study," meaning a decision on the pipeline would have to wait until the 1976 Legislature.

Supporters of the pipeline view the additional time delay imposed by an interim study as a victory for the railroads.

1979 Deadline

ETSI wants to have the pipeline, which would pass through western Nebraska, operational by 1979. However, the Kansas and Nebraska Legislatures must extend the eminent domain power to ETSI before work can begin.

Murphy, the bill's sponsor, said, "I don't know what an interim study would accomplish. This nation has an energy crisis, and coal is the answer. Nebraska shouldn't be the dog in the manger.

"I hope the committee advances the bill soon."

Bob Crosby, a former governor and Lincoln attorney who was hired by ETSI to lobby for LB147, said the pipeline supporters have offered amendments which would allay any fears about other pipelines.

Crosby said the amendments would restrict coal pipelines by limiting their water supply to the Madison Formation, a deep geologic bed which is not used for irrigation and does not extend into Nebraska.

The amendments would further restrict any other coal pipeline ventures by vesting the State Water Resources Board with authority to control them.

Crosby noted Eugene Reid, a former state water expert, has said the project would have no impact on Nebraska's water supplies. The pipeline would be buried beneath plow depth, and thus not interfere with farming operations.

Crosby said he opposed an interim study of the issue.

New Plan More Acceptable

The New York Times

Washington — Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee formally issued proposals Sunday for a national energy program, and administration officials indicated privately that the plan offered a better basis for compromise with the White House than the program announced last week by a task force of congressional Democrats.

The administration officials said that the Ways and Means Committee document, which includes, among other things, a graduated tax on gasoline and import quotas, was closer to the President's program and therefore more acceptable.

Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, said the proposals prepared by the committee Democrats constituted a "tougher package" than the program put forth last week by the Democrats' task force.

The Oregon Democrat, interviewed on CBS-TV's program, "Face The Nation," said his committee's program could very well be "the point of compromise" with President Ford.

Labeled 'Alternatives'

The committee's proposals, which are labeled as "alternatives for consideration" and are not meant to be specific legislative recommendations, include the following elements:

—A gradual tax increase on the "excess" use of gasoline, which is defined as gas consumption over nine gallons a week per motorist. The tax would start at 5 cents a gallon and build up to 40 cents by 1979.

—A gradually rising import quota designed to reduce oil imports over a two-to-three year period and achieve a 15% decline in imports within the next 10 years.

—A federal petroleum purchasing agency to deal directly with the oil producers' cartel.

—A windfall profits tax to prevent oil companies from reaping unfair advantage from higher prices and deregulation.

The preface to the Ways and Means energy outline emphasizes that the program "generally agrees with the President's proposals in the ultimate objective of reducing dependence on imports and returning to a free competitive price."

Slower Program

However, the preface asserts that the committee's proposals, unlike the President's program, would not seek to attain the goals too quickly for the currently depressed state of the economy.

Ford has proposed a program that would cut down on energy consumption by sharply raising the price of imported crude oil, first through import fees and then through tariffs, domestic taxes, decontrol of products now under price regulations and other methods that would take effect fairly quickly.

The President's chief energy adviser, Frank G. Zarb, gave fresh indication Sunday that the White House is prepared to make concessions in order to reach a compromise with Capitol Hill.

Delay Possible

Appearing on the NBC program, "Meet The Press," Zarb said the administration was willing to consider delaying the decontrol of "old" oil, oil from established wells, which is scheduled to take effect April 1 by presidential order. Zarb said this issue was connected with the President's decision on whether to postpone the second $1-a-barrel levy on imported oil. The President is expected to announce his decision Monday.

Zarb also indicated that the administration might be amenable to some kind of excise tax on automobiles, although it had some reservations about the advantages that might accrue to foreign cars.

New Plan More Acceptable

©The New York Times

Washington — Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee formally issued proposals Sunday for a national energy program, and administration officials indicated privately that the plan offered a better basis for compromise with the White House than the program announced last week by a task force of congressional Democrats.

The administration officials said that the Ways and Means Committee document, which includes, among other things, a graduated tax on gasoline and import quotas, was closer to the President's program and therefore more acceptable.

Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, said the proposals prepared by the committee Democrats constituted a "tougher package" than the program put forth last week by the Democrats' task force.

The Oregon Democrat, interviewed on CBS-TV's program, "Face The Nation," said his committee's program could very well be "the point of compromise" with President Ford.

Labeled 'Alternatives' The committee's proposals, which are labeled as "alternatives for consideration" and are not meant to be specific legislative recommendations, include the following elements:

—A gradual tax increase on the "excess" use of gasoline, which is defined as gas consumption over nine gallons a week per motorist. The tax would start at 5 cents a gallon and build up to 40 cents by 1979.

—A gradually rising import quota designed to reduce oil imports over a two-to-three year period and achieve a 15% decline in imports within the next 10 years.

—A federal petroleum purchasing agency to deal directly with the oil producers' cartel.

—A windfall profits tax to prevent oil companies from reaping unfair advantage from higher prices and deregulation.

The preface to the Ways and Means energy outline emphasizes that the program "generally agrees with the President's proposals in the ultimate objective of reducing dependence on imports and returning to a free competitive price."

Slower Program

However, the preface asserts that the committee's proposals, unlike the President's program, would not seek to attain the goals too quickly for the currently depressed state of the economy.

Ford has proposed a program that would cut down on energy consumption by sharply raising the price of imported crude oil, first through import fees and then through tariffs, domestic taxes, decontrol of products now under price regulations and other methods that would take effect fairly quickly.

The President's chief energy adviser, Frank G. Zarb, gave fresh indication Sunday that the White House is prepared to make concessions in order to reach a compromise with Capitol Hill.

Delay Possible

Appearing on the NBC program, "Meet The Press," Zarb said the administration was willing to consider delaying the decontrol of "old" oil, oil from established wells, which is scheduled to take effect April 1 by presidential order. Zarb said this issue was connected with the President's decision on whether to postpone the second $1-a-barrel levy on imported oil. The President is expected to announce his decision Monday.

Zarb also indicated that the administration might be amenable to some kind of excise tax on automobiles, although it had some reservations about the advantages that might accrue to foreign cars.

Hot Words End Meeting Of Legislators, N. Viets

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A U.S. congressional delegation's attempt to obtain information on Americans missing in action ended in a heated exchange Sunday with some of the lawmakers telling North Vietnamese representatives they were liars and murderers.

Rep. Bill Chappell Jr., D-Fla., accused North Vietnam of murder in attacks on American searching for graves of missing U.S. soldiers in South Vietnam, and Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla., called North Vietnamese statements "hogwash."

Other members of the U.S. delegation, including Reps. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., and Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., were more conciliatory, urging improved relations between North Vietnam and the United States.

Bartlett later said he believed the group will recommend that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger begin negotiations with the Soviet Union, China and North Vietnam to end the fighting.

Bartlett made the comment in a statement at Tan Son Nhut airport shortly before the eight-member U.S. delegation left for Washington to report to President Ford and Congress on their fact-finding mission to assess the need for $522 million in supplemental military aid for South Vietnam and Cambodia.

Bartlett was asked if Congress would recommend that Kissinger return to Vietnam or try to reopen some sort of negotiations. He replied:

"Yes, I would say that each one of us — and I certainly am not speaking for anybody but myself — but it would be my guess that we would want Secretary of State Kissinger to play a very big role, to play it right away, with Russia and China in an effort to encourage them to use their influence on the North Vietnamese to reduce the level of war and to reduce the military support to the North Vietnamese as we would reduce it to South Vietnam.

"Also I think he can have an influence with North Vietnam, hopefully. At least I think that all of us will recommend that he use his talents and energies to the fullest to help bring peace to this part of the world."

Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-Calif., also told newsmen that he felt Kissinger had to become involved in efforts to achieve a peaceful settlement of the Cambodian and Vietnam wars.

He said he also visited the South Vietnam's national prison center and "learned that of 32,000 prisoners over half of them have not yet been judged."

McCloskey said the political prisoners issue would weigh heavily on the vote for supplemental aid to Saigon.

"The two I saw personally and talked to privately have been in jail three years, have never been brought to trial, have never been charged with a crime. You have to consider then that half of the prisoners in this country are political prisoners, if that is the case.

"We're going to have to cut off foreign aid under the law or if we give aid to this country they're going to have to change their policy and give a fair trial to people that are charged with being Communists. At least they're entitled to a trial to determine if they are Communists, not to have it determined secretly by some police."

In Phnom Penh, meanwhile, Communist-led gunners fired at least 10 rockets into the Cambodian capital, killing 10 persons and wounding 23, military sources said.

At the same time, diplomatic sources in Phnom Penh said there was "nothing new" in a statement Saturday by President Lon Nol that some visiting U.S. legislators interpreted as an offer to step down if it would bring peace to Cambodia. The informants said Lon Nol insists on being a party to any negotiations with the Khmer Rouge and would agree to go only in return for Communist concessions.

In Saigon, Chappell told Lt. Col. Nguyen Duc Bao, acting chief of the Hanoi delegation, that he had come to Vietnam with an open mind but that the North Vietnamese responses to his questions had made up his mind to vote for $300 million in supplemental military aid for the Saigon government. Chappell had been expected to vote for the increased aid even before the meeting with the Hanoi delegation.

Bartlett later thrust a Missing In Action bracelet at Bao bearing the name of Capt. Clifford Fieszel of Tulsa, Okla., who was shot down on Sept. 30, 1968, in the Haiphong area.

"I have on my wrist a MIA bracelet," Bartlett said, his voice rising. "Capt. Fieszel. He was shot down in 1968, about seven years ago. His wife wants to know where he is, or wants to know where his remains are. I go back to Oklahoma in about two weeks. Now what am I going to tell Mrs. Fieszel when we're paying a lot of money to send a flight from here to Hanoi once a week with the expressed purpose of providing information on MIA's and we haven't received one bit of information?"

After Bartlett pressed for a reply, Bao told the senator he he would inquire through his government about Fieszel.

Rep. John J. Flynt Jr., D-Fla., then asked what steps were being taken to facilitate the recovery of more than 900 Americans listed as missing in action and more than 1,400 listed as dead but whose bodies have not been recovered.

Bao read a statement, accusing the United States of violating the cease-fire through spy flights over North Vietnam, through continued aid to South Vietnam, by conducting airlifts to Phnom Penh, and by not providing reconstruction aid to North Vietnam.

Flynt told Bao: "Your answer to a very humanitarian and sincere question bears no relation whatsoever to the question which I have asked. It is clearly a prepared statement containing many fabrications which you have read and had your interpreter read even if I asked you what the weather was like in Hanoi yesterday."

Bartlett told Bao, "We have a term in Oklahoma that covers your answers. It is hogwash."

Chappell added: "... I can not see any good faith on the part of people who ... on Dec. 15, 1973, murdered two Americans out in the process of finding a gravesite ..."

Actually one American was shot and killed during a search operation on that date near Saigon. After that the United States suspended formal searches for Americans missing in action and little progress has been made since in accounting for them.

BARTLETT ... angrily points to bracelet.

One Party In Iran Decried By Shah

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi decreed Iran a one-party state Sunday and called on all Iranians "who believe in the royal regime, the Iranian constitution and the Iranian revolution" to join the new political organization.

The Shah's announcement said Iran's present two-party system, which he himself established with loyal politicians, is dissolved and replaced with one party for "at least the next two years." Radio Iran reported he also issued broad-ranging decrees to increase worker and public ownership of industry and raise minimum wages. They included:

—That 49% of the shares in all privately owned factories be sold to their workers and for the public to buy the shares if the workers did not buy them.

—That 99% of all government-owned factories, with the exception of key industries like oil, steel mills, copper and transport, be sold to their workers and the public, with 1% of the shares to be held by the government with full management rights.

—A new minimum monthly wage of $184 for workers and laborers throughout the nation. The Iranian parliament sits at the pleasure of the Shah, who has the power to overrule and dissolve it. Individual members sometimes criticize the government, but the Shah approves all major decisions and sets national priorities.

The one-party system will be under the leadership of Premier Amir Abbass Hoveida, the announcement added.

Hoveida, secretary general of Iran's ruling Iran Novin party, will lead a new party called the National Resurrection party, the radio said.

The new party's slogan is "loyalty and support for the monarchy, the Iranian constitution and the Iranian revolution," it added.

The opposition Mardom party faced leadership difficulties last January when executive members ousted party leader Nasser Ameri, who died in a car crash a few weeks later.

An unnamed Tehran politician was quoted by the radio as saying both the Iran Novin and Mardom parties had in practice preached the same ideologies.

N.Y. Times Summary

Marcos 'Overwhelmed'

Manila — Pronouncing himself "overwhelmed" by the heavy vote in his favor in the referendum he staged here last week, President Ferdinand E. Marcos has promised a "return to the discipline of the early days of martial law." He ordered senior civilian officials and all military officers above the rank of first lieutenant to submit statements of their present assets with comparative figures to show what they were worth when they first served under his administration.

Lines To Be Formed

Washington — Before dawn Monday America's new breadlines will begin forming as the newly unemployed and the chronically poor begin the monthly ordeal of applying for or buying food stamps. As unemployment has increased, enrollment in the food program has increased by two million, pushing the national enrollment to 17.9 million people as of Jan. 31. Reports issued by government agencies were critical of the program. The Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs estimated that only 38% of persons eligible for food stamps were receiving them, and that about 20 million eligible persons were not on the rolls.

Schools Stress Basics

New York — Public elementary schools across the country are putting renewed stress on teaching basic reading and arithmetic in response to falling test scores and parents demanding a no-frills education for their children. A survey by the New York Times has found that many of the liberal innovations of the past decade are being modified to return more control over teaching programs and students to the teacher.

Militants Identified

Washington — United States Senate investigators have identified 37 persons as members in hiding in the militant leftist Weather Underground Organization, out of a total of 158 they list as having been members or associates of the group since its founding in 1969, when it was called Weathermen, a name taken from a 1965 song by Bob Dylan.

Anarchists Freed To Save Lorenz

BERLIN (AP) — Four anarchists freed from West German and West Berlin prisons to comply with a demand from politician Peter Lorenz's kidnapers agreed early Monday to be flown out of West Germany with a fifth comrade.

In a taped radio message from the Frankfurt airport, one of the anarchists, Ingrid Siepmann, told authorities to arrange the flight. The destination was not immediately announced.

The fifth anarchist, Gabriele Kroeche-Thiedemann, 23, was reported en route from a prison in Essen to the airport.

Lorenz, the 52-year-old leader of the Christian Democratic party in West Berlin, was kidnapped Thursday by a terrorist gang that said it would kill him unless the imprisoned anarchists were flown out of Germany by 9 a.m. Monday.

The four anarchists were taken to the Frankfurt airport, in West Germany, to decide whether they would leave the country. A Lufthansa jetliner was standing by with a volunteer crew.

However, it was not known whether the West German government would let them go without some proof that Lorenz was still alive.

Meanwhile, West Berlin elected a new municipal legislature on Sunday, and the Christian Democrats displaced the Socialists as the leading party for the first time.

Political leaders of the major parties agreed that the abduction of Lorenz was a significant factor in the strong showing by the Christian Democrats. But while they gained 44% of the vote they fell short of a majority in the assembly and it appeared doubtful that Lorenz, if he is released unharmed, would be selected as mayor by the assembly.

There was a possibility that the governing Social Democrats, who won 42.7% of the ballots, would form a coalition with the Free Democrats with 7.2% and maintain control.

Lorenz, a native Berliner, got 53.1% of the vote in his district, and when the figure was announced at election headquarters both his followers and political opponents joined in applause.

Former Social Democrat Mayor and Chancellor Willy Brandt said he believed the kidnapping had gained sympathy for Lorenz and tipped the scale in favor of the Christian Democrats.

It also was the first time in 20 years that the Social Democrats did not win an absolute majority.

A coalition of Social Democrats and Free Democrats would copy the national level in Bonn, but no talks were expected to begin over political pacts until Lorenz' fate is known.

The kidnapers demanded the release of six anarchists but agreed to accept only four when two of those named refused to go along with the scheme.

Police said two of the prisoners, Rolf Pohle, 32, and Rolf Heissler, 26, were released from different prisons in Bavaria and flown to Frankfurt airport in helicopters. Two women, Verena Becker, 22, and Ingrid Siepmann, 30, were flown out of West Berlin to Frankfurt in a French plane.

Once together in the West German city, the four were to be given the chance to confer and then go on television to say whether or not they wanted to leave the country.

The kidnapers ordered that the four be given ransom of $52,000 and that a Boeing 707 jet with a four-man crew be available to fly them to an undisclosed location no later than 9 a.m. Monday.

With the women on the flight to Frankfurt was Heinrich Albertz, a Protestant minister and former West Berlin mayor, who also agreed to accompany the anarchists on any flight out of the country.

"I am doing it gladly," said Albertz, 60. "I have come from my wife. We said, 'Auf Wiedersehen.' I hope that everything goes well and that I will come back healthy and soon."

Lorenz, a Christian Democrat, is the leading opposition candidate trying to unseat Mayor Klaus Schuetz, a Social Democrat. He was seized Thursday by a group calling itself "The Movement of the Second of June."

You Can Save Money On Service Calls

Bryant Air Conditioning and Heating

Lots of people are saving money on service calls right now by having us give them two-in-one service. They call us to have a service man check and service their furnace and humidifier.

On the same service call, they're having us do pre-season servicing needed on their air conditioning system. By doing both jobs on one call, Bryant can give you a bargain price and save time and trouble.

It has been a long and hard winter and your furnace has been working hard. To provide maximum safety for your family and maximum efficiency for your furnace and humidifier, you should have them serviced now so that you know that they are operating at maximum efficiency. When Bryant does a check-up on your heating and humidifying system we check and service everything, including the thermostat. We also stock all kinds and sizes of humidifiers and humidifier parts and furnace filters and furnace parts. We are open six days a week and are on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

When you call for a furnace or humidifier check, be sure to ask about a pre-season service call on your air conditioning system at the same time. We can save you money on that call because you save us time by having us do both jobs at once and we pass the savings onto you.

And be sure to ask about our service maintenance agreement too. It is the best way that we know to insure service calls when you need them at a price that is reasonable.

Call us today.

A survey by the New York Times has found that many of the liberal innovations of the past decade are being modified to return more control over teaching programs and students to the teacher.

Militants Identified

Washington — United States Senate investigators have identified 37 persons as members in hiding in the militant leftist Weather Underground Organization, out of a total of 158 they list as having been members or associates of the group since its founding in 1969, when it was called Weathermen, a name taken from a 1965 song by Bob Dylan.

You Can Save Money On Service Calls

Mr. "B"
President of
Bryant Air Conditioning and Heating

Lots of people are saving money on service calls right now by having us give them two-in-one service. They call us to have a service man check and service their furnace and humidifier.

On the same service call, they're having us do pre-season servicing needed on their air conditioning system. By doing both jobs on one call, Bryant can give you a bargain price and save time and trouble.

It has been a long and hard winter and your furnace has been working hard. To provide maximum safety for your family and maximum efficiency for your furnace and humidifier, you should have them serviced now so that you know that they are operating at maximum efficiency. When Bryant does a check-up on your heating and humidifying system we check and service everything, including the thermostat. We also stock all kinds and sizes of humidifiers and humidifier parts and furnace filters and furnace parts. We are open six days a week and are on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

When you call for a furnace or humidifier check, be sure to ask about a pre-season service call on your air conditioning system at the same time. We can save you money on that call because you save us time by having us do both jobs at once and we pass the savings onto you.

And be sure to ask about our service maintenance agreement too. It is the best way that we know to insure service calls when you need them at a price that is reasonable.

Call us today.

Anarchists Freed To Save Lorenz

BERLIN (AP) — Four anarchists freed from West German and West Berlin prisons to comply with a demand from politician Peter Lorenz's kidnapers agreed early Monday to be flown out of West Germany with a fifth comrade.

In a taped radio message from the Frankfurt airport, one of the anarchists, Ingrid Siepmann, told authorities to arrange the flight. The destination was not immediately announced.

The fifth anarchist, Gabriele Kroeche-Thiedemann, 23, was reported en route from a prison in Essen to the airport.

Lorenz, the 52-year-old leader of the Christian Democratic party in West Berlin, was kidnapped Thursday by a terrorist gang that said it would kill him unless the imprisoned anarchists were flown out of Germany by 9 a.m. Monday.

The four anarchists were taken to the Frankfurt airport, in West Germany, to decide whether they would leave the country. A Lufthansa jetliner was standing by with a volunteer crew.

However, it was not known whether the West German government would let them go without some proof that Lorenz was still alive.

Meanwhile, West Berlin elected a new municipal legislature on Sunday, and the Christian Democrats displaced the Socialists as the leading party for the first time.

Political leaders of the major parties agreed that the abduction of Lorenz was a significant factor in the strong showing by the Christian Democrats. But while they gained 44% of the vote they fell short of a majority in the assembly and it appeared doubtful that Lorenz, if he is released unharmed, would be selected as mayor by the assembly.

There was a possibility that the governing Social Democrats, who won 42.7% of the ballots, would form a coalition with the Free Democrats with 7.2% and maintain control.

Lorenz, a native Berliner, got 53.1% of the vote in his district, and when the figure was announced at election headquarters both his followers and political opponents joined in applause.

Former Social Democrat Mayor and Chancellor Willy Brandt said he believed the kidnapping had gained sympathy for Lorenz and tipped the scale in favor of the Christian Democrats.

It also was the first time in 20 years that the Social Democrats did not win an absolute majority.

A coalition of Social Democrats and Free Democrats would copy the national level in Bonn, but no talks were expected to begin over political pacts until Lorenz' fate is known.

The kidnapers demanded the release of six anarchists but agreed to accept only four when two of those named refused to go along with the scheme.

Police said two of the prisoners, Rolf Pohle, 32, and Rolf Heissler, 26, were released from different prisons in Bavaria and flown to Frankfurt airport in helicopters. Two women, Verena Becker, 22, and Ingrid Siepmann, 30, were flown out of West Berlin to Frankfurt in a French plane.

Once together in the West German city, the four were to be given the chance to confer and then go on television to say whether or not they wanted to leave the country.

The kidnapers ordered that the four be given ransom of $52,000 and that a Boeing 707 jet with a four-man crew be available to fly them to an undisclosed location no later than 9 a.m. Monday.

With the women on the flight to Frankfurt was Heinrich Albertz, a Protestant minister and former West Berlin mayor, who also agreed to accompany the anarchists on any flight out of the country.

"I am doing it gladly," said Albertz, 60. "I have come from my wife. We said, 'Auf Wiedersehen.' I hope that everything goes well and that I will come back healthy and soon."

Lorenz, a Christian Democrat, is the leading opposition candidate trying to unseat Mayor Klaus Schuetz, a Social Democrat. He was seized Thursday by a group calling itself "The Movement of the Second of June."

Poll: Pollution Control Curbs Opposed

Monday, March 3, 1975 The Lincoln Star 3

By LOUIS HARRIS
Three out of four Americans are unconvinced that a temporary slow-down of water and air pollution-control programs will "help ease the energy shortage," "get the economy moving again" or "ease unemployment."

Louis Harris
Reasons Rejected

asked by the Harris Survey:
"How serious do you feel (read list) is in this country — very serious, somewhat serious or not serious at all?"

PROBLEM AREAS SEEN AS VERY SERIOUS

Problem Area	Very Serious	Somewhat Serious	Not Serious at All
Inflation	83	15	2
Unemployment	74	25	1
Water pollution	51	40	9
Air pollution	46	34	20
Energy shortage	44	27	29

Since 1973, the percentage of people concerned about water pollution has risen 11 points; the percentage of those worried about air pollution, 13 points. Americans continue to rate water and air pollution as a more serious problem than the energy shortage and second only to inflation and unemployment.

To determine whether or not the people believe it necessary to slow down pollution control to greater concentrate on reducing the energy shortage, the Harris Survey asked a cross section of 1,543 households recently:
"In order to help ease the energy shortage, do you think it is necessary to slow down the rate at which we clean up air and water pollution, or do you think we can ease the energy shortage and also clean up air and water pollution?"

SLOW DOWN CLEAN-UP OF POLLUTION TO EASE ENERGY SHORTAGE

Response	Percentage
Slow down pollution clean up	22
Can do both	45
Not sure	33

By a large, 65-22 majority, the people feel that the energy shortage and pollution can be tackled at the same time. A national majority would probably oppose off-shore drilling for oil in the Atlantic, since environmentalists believe that it could pollute the water.

The cross section was then asked:

"In order to get the economy moving again and to ease unemployment, do you think it is necessary to slow down the rate at which we clean up air and water pollution, or do you think we can get the economy going again and also clean up air and water pollution?"

SLOW DOWN CLEAN-UP OF POLLUTION TO EASE UNEMPLOYMENT

Response	Percentage
Slow down pollution clean up	22
Can do both	45
Not sure	33

Even though Americans see inflation and unemployment as a more serious problem than pollution, they see no reason to halt progress in environmental control to greater concentrate on boosting the economy and again believe that both can be done simultaneously.

The results of this latest Harris Survey indicate that proposals to slow down air and water pollution control programs are likely to meet with public protest. The great concern Americans have about the economy and energy supply has obviously not overshadowed their concern about keeping the environment healthy.

Poll: Pollution Control Curbs Opposed

By LOUIS HARRIS
Three out of four Americans are unconvinced that a temporary slow-down of water and air pollution-control programs will "help ease the energy shortage," "get the economy moving again" or "ease unemployment."

Americans, who rate water and air pollution as the nation's third and fourth greatest problems respectively, oppose proposals to sacrifice environmental clean-up for either emergency energy programs or those to boost the economy.

Large majorities believe that it is possible to rescue the economy or produce more energy while continuing efforts at pollution control.

Perhaps, such public opposition to proposals to curb environmental clean-up is due to a sharp rise of concern about water and air pollution since 1973. This year and in 1973, a cross section of Americans was

'A Mistrustful Society'

State Senator Harold Moylan of Omaha is the sponsor of a bill which would raise the salary of Nebraska Public Service Commission (PSC) members from $17,500 to $25,000 per year. The size of the increase can be a subject for future discussion. A raise is not objectionable. But the size of it, especially in light of current circumstances, is open to question.

What we're concerned about today is Sen. Moylan's apparent insensitivity to the appearances and potential for wrongdoing resulting from the cozy relationships between special interests and regulators and lawmakers. Many people, whether the senator thinks so or not, are concerned that public interest may be forgotten as business is conducted by backscratching, gift-exchanging bosom buddies. And the defense that "that's the way we've always done it" just doesn't cut it anymore.

In befriending the PSC in the salary matter, Moylan made reference the other day to the recent football ticket and fishing trip controversy and said he did not take the matter of favors "that seriously." The whole matter, he said, has been "blown up a little, as is normal for the press to do." The press, of course, is always blamed when reporters kick over rocks, open closet doors and turn on the lights and people don't like what they see. The exposure of so much sunlight makes some people awfully uncomfortable.

Moylan went on to further illustrate his idea of the standards by which public officials should live by explaining that "we don't get the salary they (public service commissioners) do so I think we (state senators) can accept those favors."

Now, ordinarily we would support the weighting of the distribution of goodies at the lower end of the income scale, but as a rule of thumb for public officials, it's a crock.

Ruefully we conclude that Sen. Moylan has a lot of company who share his attitudes about accepting favors. A majority of the PSC apparently thinks its all right. But it goes beyond the gift itself, this attitude that doesn't recognize the moral implications of accepting favors from people who stand to gain or lose from legislative and regulatory decision-making, and which fails to see the need for the highest standards of official conduct.

We harken back to the waning days of the Nixon administration. With the admission of the final most damaging evidence, just about every die-hard Nixon supporter in Washington threw up his hands in disgust and capitulation. It was too much for almost all of them.

But poor old Carl Curtis kept plugging away for Nixon; trying to convince people the president was a victim of a plot or that Watergate was only an illegal entry and something that was to be expected among political combatants. The cover-up wasn't bad, he must have reasoned, because the object of the cover-up wasn't bad.

There's too much of that — the failure to perceive the problem — in Nebraska.

PSC Chairman Eric Rasmussen has pressed for a stronger code of ethics for the commission but has received precious little support for his stand among fellow members. In addressing a legislative committee on the salary matter on the same day Moylan spoke, Rasmussen noted that higher standards are needed because society is changing. "Today we have the ethics of a mistrustful society." He's right; society is mistrustful. For damn good reason.

TOM
WICKER

WASHINGTON — Every time the Pentagon wants more money, it starts talking about the dangers of war. And every time any so-called "national security" agency finds itself being criticized, it replies that the national security is being endangered.

Director William E. Colby of the Central Intelligence Agency has taken to that classic bureaucratic pattern, claiming that "exaggerated" charges against the C.I.A. have resulted in "almost hysterical excitement" that has "placed American intelligence in danger." But who's hysterical? Colby sounds nearer to it than anyone else.

In fact, Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, who will chair the special Senate committee to investigate the "intelligence community," said in a statement following Colby's — though not specifically in response to it — that he was "surprised in recent days at the hysteria of those who are fearful that this committee is out to wreck these agencies." So should anyone be surprised who knows Church's moderate temperament, the responsible makeup of his committee, the fact that its senior Republican member is the conservative, military-oriented John Tower of Texas, and that another member is that staunch defender of national security, Barry Goldwater of Arizona. Some wrecking crew!

Who's being hysterical might also be judged by the fact that Colby was not forced to call a news conference or to issue a press release to get his fears for the national security on the record. The House Defense Appropriations Subcommittee, which "oversees" the C.I.A. budget to the extent that anyone does, provided him a hospitable forum and three hours in which to state his views openly — something C.I.A. directors rarely do except when they want to sell the public on the great job they say the C.I.A. is doing to maintain national security and world peace. The subcommittee did not, predictably, provide serious or searching cross-examination.

Nevertheless, since Colby was clearly trying to suggest that the C.I.A. is being maligned and the nation endangered by irresponsible criticism, certain responses have to be made — aside from that excellent piece of country wisdom that "Bit dogs bark loudest." For one thing, the oldest bureaucratic defense known to man is to try to shift the focus of attention from the substance of charges to those who make them — to convince the public that the critics are the problem, rather than the thing being criticized.

Even before that friendly House subcommittee, for example, Colby conceded that the C.I.A. at one time of another had kept files on four members of Congress, some of them "anti-war." How do we know there were not others? For that matter, how does HE know? And just recently, in an interview with Barbara Walters on "Today," Charles Colson made a strong case that the C.I.A. knew in advance of the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's former psychiatrist. Saying that was "beyond dispute," Colson continued:

"They processed the so-called casing photos, they provided all the equipment... It's very clear to me that they knew about that and actively participated in it and assisted it, provided the means for it, helped with the operation from beginning to end

... Some of the memos I saw certainly went as high as Mr. Helms." (Richard Helms was director of the C.I.A. in 1971, when the break-in took place.) Colby has questioned Colson's credibility, which is indeed questionable — but more so than that of the C.I.A., whose way of life is secrecy and undercover operation? More so than that of Helms, whose testimony on several points has been misleading or incomplete? The point is that a multiplicity of such allegations of plainly illicit activities — not just by the C.I.A. but by the F.B.I., too — have come to public attention. The substance of those allegations needs to be examined and verified; and if any of them can be, perhaps others must be sought. In the course of doing that, questions of the credibility and responsibility of those who make the allegations will answer themselves.

One does not need to take Jeb Magruder, for example, as a pillar of credibility to be struck by his remark in a lecture this week that had it not been for the Watergate exposures, the Nixon administration would have become a "perpetual presidency." By 1976, he said, according to the Associated Press, "we would have been in the position to elect whomever we wanted to elect. Once you learn to use the levers of power, it becomes easy."

Colby does not seem to understand that the question really is not the difficulties presently being caused for the C.I.A. The question is about what Rep. Lucien Nedzi of Michigan has called "the appropriate role of secret institutions in a free, democratic society. It exists only to serve that society, and it does not do so if it undermines, threatens or ignores the rights of that society's citizens, no matter what "national security" justification it tries to plead.

What to do with the so-called Haymarket Square?

The entryway to Lincoln, they're calling it. The first on-the-scene view of downtown as you drive in from the Interstate access route.

What we need are some imaginative proposals — not motels and warehouses and parking lots, whether landscaped or not.

An eight-story statue of Bob Devaney with a revolving restaurant on top? A jai-lai palace? A cornfield? A lake?

That's it. Get imaginative.

Bob Devaney could be pointing toward his bowl on 10th Street, the other hand raised to form a Number One finger salute.

The jai-lai palace could steal gambling tourists from Miami Beach, but we'll need a constitutional amendment to authorize betting on the game.

What could be more typical of our state's agricultural base than the cornfield? Or a feed lot?

And the lake? Wow! A block of cool clear water downtown, surrounded by trees and benches for the weary.

This square, by the way, is the block bounded by 9th and 10th, and Q and R Streets, where the old police and fire stations were located. Currently, it's a mess.

It's right there a couple of blocks from Brandeis, a block from the Hilton, a few minutes walk from the stadium, a brief stagger from your favorite P Street bar.

It's not a block you use now — but it could be.

Therefore, I should think, the people of Lincoln ought to decide what they want to do with it.

They may not want it used for commercial purposes.

They may not want it used for a public parking lot.

Huh? The People's Park.

I still think the site of the old federal building between O and P Street would be a perfect spot for a people's park, a touch of green in downtown Lincoln.

But people keep telling me it would be a shame to knock down that magnificent old structure. Frankly, I don't think it's so magnificent... but what do I know?

Anyway, if we can't get the people's park there, we might want to try for it at the square.

You know, lots of green... grass, trees, shrubs, bushes, stuff like that. And water... fountains or pools. Walking paths and benches.

A place to wander or sit in the sun, to relax or reflect or doze for a while.

There are a lot of older people who live downtown who have no way of getting to the green of Pioneer's Park. This could provide a place for them to go. Or you, too.

Let's hear it for The People's Park. Or what would you like to suggest?

This could be the year for prison construction. Maybe.

Roland Luedtke has labored long and hard for reforms at Nebraska's correctional institutions and within the state's criminal justice system.

The major unfinished business is a capital construction program for prison construction and improvements.

Governor Exon is committed to such construction, even in what he has termed a year of austerity.

But the governor favored such a plan last year, too.

And, yet, it was emasculated and compromised by the Legislature into a strange hybrid which ultimately fell to a gubernatorial veto.

The impressive array of support for the prison construction plan at a Judiciary Committee hearing last week should not be interpreted as a guarantee of success. A hopeful sign, yes.

But supporters of the plan have seen it fall too many times to believe that the proposal is in the bag this year.

Approval of $10 million construction projects is not that easy to get from the Legislature. Especially this one.

This is not a fieldhouse which will be used by the public. It's a building for people who have disobeyed society's laws, and it is easy for many senators to turn their backs on such expenditures.

Even if a new structure is needed to provide safe and humane facilities for prisoners. Even if a new prison is central to the success of programmatic improvements to replace punishment with rehabilitation.

And even if a society can be judged on how it treats its least fortunate members... and those who have offended its laws.

ERIC SEBERG

Lincoln, Neb.

In the past few months, there has been quite a bit of turmoil in the city about the DWI policies of the Lincoln Police Department. We have seen letters and heard testimony about arrest procedures but most of this has been negative in content and substantiated only by the party testifying. I feel that it is time to look at this in a realistic light with supportive facts. Long columns of data do not hold all the answers but they do lay a foundation to work with and raise some interesting questions. It might also be interesting to see the police reports in some of these cases so both sides would have a fair trial.

I am not categorically denying all charges that have been made. Someone who is busy might forget to place a call or move someone from a temporary cell, but it doesn't seem that any permanent damage could come from this. Packages are lost in the mail and orders misplaced in department stores yet no loud cries or public hearings arise from this. If policies and procedures need changing, then it should be done through elections or sensible public hearings, not in a media kangaroo court with hearsay evidence.

I spend my share of time in local drinking establishments and the law of averages says that I have an equal chance to be "harassed" like anyone else. This apparently isn't so because I have never had paint sprayed on my car or seen anyone else's car being painted. I have never been bothered and hardly notice officers checking bars, been stopped for some minor offense or noticed a cruiser staking out a bar. This is curious if these things go on as is alleged.

Let us now go to those long columns of figures. Normally records are kept on a midnight-to-midnight basis. However, this does not leave a period in which bars are closed for any length of time. Analysis of LASAP records of arrests by time yields these values for a six-am-to-six-am period:

6 AM FRI-6 AM SAT 33 arrests per month
6 AM SUN-6 AM MON 14.8
6 AM WED-6 AM THU 20.5
(figures based on every other month, 1974)

It seems strange that if the police are staking out bars, marking cars and following people, there should be only six arrests fewer on the SUN-MON period when no bars are open than the WED-THUR period when bars are open for about 18 hours. Whose cars get marked in lots that are empty?

I spoke with an officer who made 37 DWI arrests last year while patrolling a district that has no bars. If all officers follow the same policy, then the approximately 150 officers doing patrol duty should have tallied 5,500 arrests instead of the 2,000 recorded.

The last idea to use in providing a balanced evaluation of the allegations is that people are put in cells with no running water or windows and with only a hole in the floor for a toilet. Who gets put in a cell like this? Someone who is vomiting, has lost control of his bodily functions or is screaming and combative. Would you like to have the occupant of the bunk above you urinating uncontrollably?

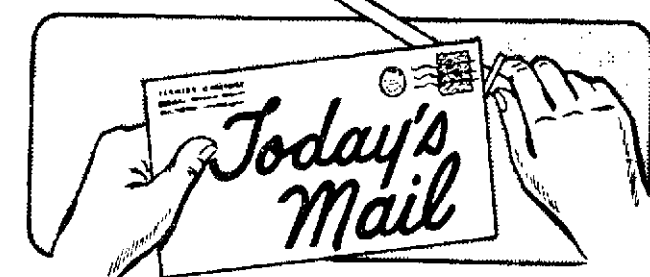

It would seem that the hearings currently being held by Mr. Bruckner are to be the final say in the Lincoln DWI procedures but there are still some things the individual can do:

(1) If you have something valid to say, make an appointment and testify before Mr. Bruckner but don't go there just because you're mad about the traffic ticket you got this morning or the hundred bucks you're out because you were caught DWI.

(2) Carry an alcohol limit card available from LASAP and follow its guidelines. It is very accurate.

(3) Urge your favorite bar of tavern association to purchase a breathalyzer so that you can test yourself and arrange other transportation if you are over the limit.

The drunk driver is a menace to say, make no debate on that — and he must be removed from the road. There is no reason why the rest of us can't enjoy ourselves and still drive home safely and legally.

Unanswered Questions

Lincoln, Neb.

I urge the people of Lincoln and Nebraska to support LB 439. Sen. Fowler's bill which would require a moratorium on the building of future nuclear power plants in Nebraska.

This bill is needed to prevent the health, safety and economic hazards inherent in nuclear generating plants.

There are, as Sen. Fowler said, "too many unanswered questions" regarding this power source. According to recent studies, there is a high incidence of cancer, leukemia and infant mortality within a 50-mile radius of these plants. Both Omaha and Lincoln are in such a radius from the Fort Calhoun nuclear plant.

The safety backup system, the Emergency Core Cooling (ECC) system, which is supposed to protect us in the event of a breakdown of a nuclear generator, has been tested six times and failed six times. A nuclear plant disaster would be a tremendous danger to the eastern part of the state.

Also, the increasing costs of nuclear plants are so great that, according to a Massachusetts Institute of Technology report, these plants could price themselves out of the market. The building of only one nuclear plant would cost one billion dollars. In terms of cost and efficiency, about 45% on the average, this is a questionable investment.

Taken all together, the health, safety and economic questions, the only prudent course is to declare a moratorium on the further building of nuclear plants in Nebraska.

The logical course then is to support LB 439, the nuclear power plant moratorium bill. I urge you to express your view to the state senators on the Public Works Committee. You should also attend the public hearing March 6 at the Unicameral.

Parents Switched Roles

Lincoln, Neb.

The people who ask what is happening to today's youth are the parents who have switched roles with their children. They have lost all insight as to their role and have let psychologists tell them how to raise their children. It's easier to shrug and to use the words, "generation gap." Other than the average difference in age between one generation and the next, that's all it should mean — it's not an excuse.

If you take a minute to really stop and think, hasn't there always been and won't there always be a difference in the generations? Didn't you hear and use the very same words you're now hearing such as: "You don't understand," "you're old-fashioned," "Everybody's doing it," "That's the fad," etc? We all experience the same feelings, hopes, dreams, fears, tears and laughter. That's no gap — that's life. Children — and don't forget that's what they are — still expect the same things from parents as we did: love, caring and, although they balk, discipline. But if not from you, as parents, where are they going to get it?

You hear that children are growing up faster and are more mature than ever before. That's another easy excuse. They may be learning their school subjects and facts of life at an earlier age, but it's the parents who still need to see that this knowledge is used wisely and guide them slowly and carefully to maturity seeing that they have enjoyed being children first and not to give in all the time and say: "I just don't know what to do."

What has happened to a couple of our generation's phrases such as "no"? If constantly asked, "Why can't I?" answer, because, as the parent, "I said so."

It's too bad they still don't ask on TV: "Parents, do you know where your children are?" and, "Children do you know where your parents are?" How would you answer?

'A Mistrustful Society'

State Senator Harold Moylan of Omaha is the sponsor of a bill which would raise the salary of Nebraska Public Service Commission (PSC) members from $17,500 to $25,000 per year. The size of the increase can be a subject for future discussion. A raise is not objectionable. But the size of it, especially in light of current circumstances, is open to question.

What we're concerned about today is Sen. Moylan's apparent insensitivity to the appearances and potential for wrongdoing resulting from the cozy relationships between special interests and regulators and lawmakers. Many people, whether the senator thinks so or not, are concerned that public interest may be forgotten as business is conducted by backscratching, gift-exchanging bosom buddies. And the defense that "that's the way we've always done it" just doesn't cut it anymore.

In befriending the PSC in the salary matter, Moylan made reference the other day to the recent football ticket and fishing trip controversy and said he did not take the matter of favors "that seriously." The whole matter, he said, has been "blown up a little, as is normal for the press to do." The press, of course, is always blamed when reporters kick over rocks, open closet doors and turn on the lights and people don't like what they see. The exposure of so much sunlight makes some people awfully uncomfortable.

Moylan went on to further illustrate his idea of the standards by which public officials should live by explaining that "we don't get the salary they (public service commissioners) do so I think we (state senators) can accept those favors."

Now, ordinarily we would support the weighting of the distribution of goodies at the lower end of the income scale, but as a rule of thumb for public officials, it's a crock.

Ruefully we conclude that Sen. Moylan has a lot of company who share his attitudes about accepting favors. A majority of the PSC apparently thinks its all right. But it goes beyond the gift itself, this attitude that doesn't recognize the moral implications of accepting favors from people who stand to gain or lose from legislative and regulatory decision-making, and which fails to see the need for the highest standards of official conduct.

We harken back to the waning days of the Nixon administration. With the admission of the final most damaging evidence, just about every die-hard Nixon supporter in Washington threw up his hands in disgust and capitulation. It was too much for almost all of them.

But poor old Carl Curtis kept plugging away for Nixon; trying to convince people the president was a victim of a plot or that Watergate was only an illegal entry and something that was to be expected among political combatants. The cover-up wasn't bad, he must have reasoned, because the object of the cover-up wasn't bad.

There's too much of that — the failure to perceive the problem — in Nebraska.

PSC Chairman Eric Rasmussen has pressed for a stronger code of ethics for the commission but has received precious little support for his stand among fellow members. In addressing a legislative committee on the salary matter on the same day Moylan spoke, Rasmussen noted that higher standards are needed because society is changing. "Today we have the ethics of a mistrustful society." He's right; society is mistrustful. For damn good reason.

TOM

WASHINGTON — Every time the Pentagon wants more money, it starts talking about the dangers of war. And every time any so-called "national security" agency finds itself being criticized, it replies that the national security is being endangered.

Director William E. Colby of the Central Intelligence Agency has taken to that classic bureaucratic pattern, claiming that "exaggerated" charges against the C.I.A. have resulted in "almost hysterical excitement" that has "placed American intelligence in danger." But who's hysterical? Colby sounds nearer to it than anyone else.

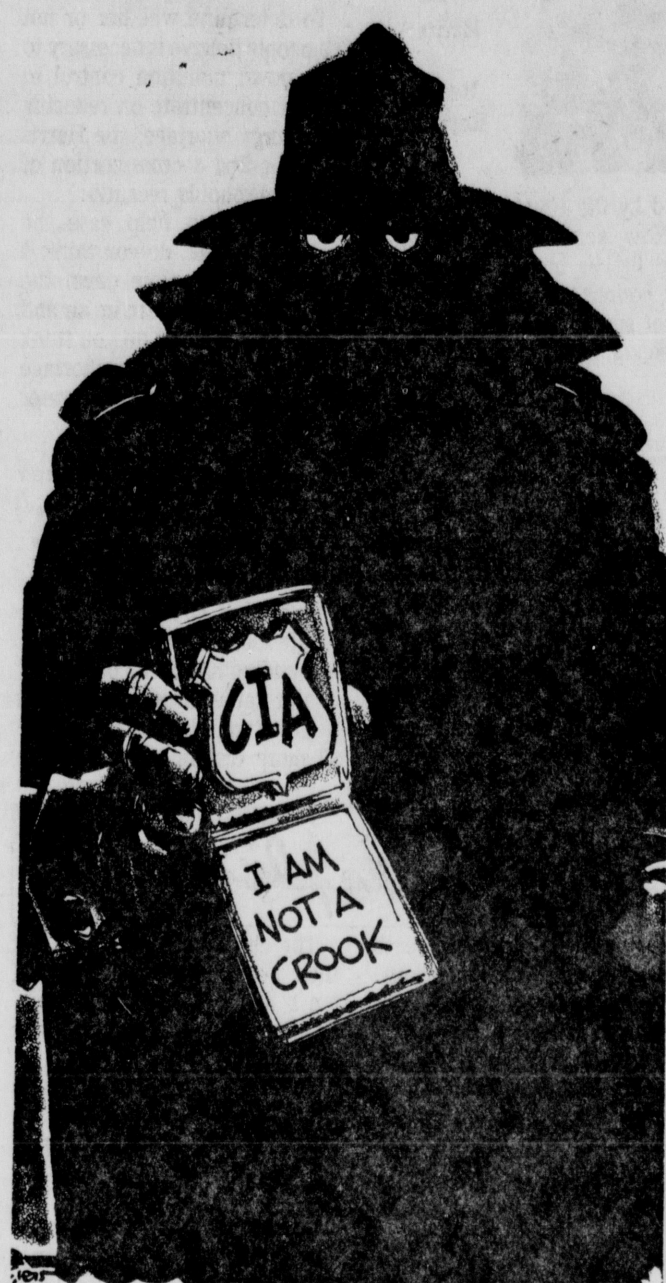

In fact, Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, who will chair the special Senate committee to investigate the "intelligence community," said in a statement following Colby's — though not specifically in response to it — that he was "surprised in recent days at the hysteria of those who are fearful that this committee is out to wreck these agencies." So should anyone be surprised who knows Church's moderate temperament, the responsible makeup of his committee, the fact that its senior Republican member is the conservative, military-oriented John Tower of Texas, and that another member is that staunch defender of national security, Barry Goldwater of Arizona. Some wrecking crew!

Who's being hysterical might also be judged by the fact that Colby was not forced to call a news conference or to issue a press release to get his fears for the national security on the record. The House Defense Appropriations Subcommittee, which "oversees" the C.I.A. budget to the extent that anyone does, provided him a hospitable forum and three hours in which to state his views openly — something C.I.A. directors rarely do except when they want to sell the public on the great job they say the C.I.A. is doing to maintain national security and world peace. The subcommittee did not, predictably, provide serious or searching cross-examination.

Nevertheless, since Colby was clearly trying to suggest that the C.I.A. is being maligned and the nation endangered by irresponsible criticism, certain responses have to be made — aside from that excellent piece of country wisdom that "Bit dogs bark loudest." For one thing, the oldest bureaucratic defense known to man is to try to shift the focus of attention from the substance of charges to those who make them — to convince the public that the critics are the problem, rather than the thing being criticized.

Let us now go to those long columns of figures. Normally records are kept on a midnight-to-midnight basis. However, this does not leave a period in which bars are closed for any length of time. Analysis of LASAP records of arrests by time yields these values for a six-am-to-six-am period:

6 AM FRI-6 AM SAT 33 arrests per month
6 AM SUN-6 AM MON 14.8
6 AM WED-6 AM THU 20.5 (figures based on every other month, 1974)

It seems strange that if the police are staking out bars, marking cars and following people, there should be only six arrests fewer on the SUN-MON period when no bars are open than the WED-THUR period when bars are open for about 18 hours. Whose cars get marked in lots that are empty?

I spoke with an officer who made 37 DWI arrests last year while patrolling a district that has no bars. If all officers follow the same policy, then the approximately 150 officers doing patrol duty should have tallied 5,500 arrests instead of the 2,000 recorded.

Unanswered Questions

Lincoln, Neb.

I urge the people of Lincoln and Nebraska to support LB 439, Sen. Fowler's bill which would require a moratorium on the building of future nuclear power plants in Nebraska.

This bill is needed to prevent the health, safety and economic hazards inherent in nuclear generating plants.

There are, as Sen. Fowler said, "too many unanswered questions" regarding this power source. According to recent studies, there is a high incidence of cancer, leukemia and infant mortality within a 50-mile radius of these plants. Both Omaha and Lincoln are in such a radius from the Fort Calhoun nuclear plant.

The safety backup system, the Emergency Core Cooling (ECC) system, which is supposed to protect us in the event of a breakdown of a nuclear generator, has been tested six times and failed six times. A nuclear plant disaster would be a tremendous danger to the eastern part of the state.

Also, the increasing costs of nuclear plants are so great that, according to a Massachusetts Institute of Technology report, these plants could price themselves out of the market. The building of only one nuclear plant would cost one billion dollars. In terms of cost and efficiency, about 45% on the average, this is a questionable investment.

Taken all together, the health, safety and economic questions, the only prudent course is to declare a moratorium on the further building of nuclear plants in Nebraska.

The logical course then is to support LB 439, the nuclear power plant moratorium bill. I urge you to express your view to the state senators on the Public Works Committee. You should also attend the public hearing March 6 at the Unicameral.

You hear that children are growing up faster and are more mature than ever before. That's another easy excuse. They may be learning their school subjects and facts of life at an earlier age, but it's the parents who still need to see that this knowledge is used wisely and guide them slowly and carefully to maturity seeing that they have enjoyed being children first and not to give in all the time and say: "I just don't know what to do."

What has happened to a couple of our generation's phrases such as "no"? If constantly asked, "Why can't I?" answer, because, as the parent, "I said so."

It's too bad they still don't ask on TV: "Parents, do you know where your children are?" and, "Children do you know where your parents are?" How would you answer?

Some Farmers Buy Hogs That Aren't Disease Free

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Some Nebraska farmers are buying diseases along with breeding stock for hog operation because they don't understand the term SPF and how it applies to hogs.

"This is one of our real problems because it hurts the reputation of SPF hogs. Farmers think they are buying SPF hogs when they are not," said Tom Socha of the Nebraska SPF Association.

The term SPF means Specific Pathogen Free and applies to hogs that are rigidly inspected for a number of diseases including atrophic rhinitis and mycoplasma pneumonia, which have recently turned up in breeding stock sold to Nebraska swine producers by out of state hog salesmen.

One of the problems with diseases in hogs brought in from other states is that to detect atrophic rhinitis and mycoplasma pneumonia the hogs have to be killed. That obviously makes their use as breeding stock rather limited.

Affects Air Filtering
Atrophic rhinitis affects the air filtering system in the pig's nose, causing flu-like problems and eventually resulting in a bent nose. The pig is a poor eater and poor producer at best and may eventually die.

Socha points out that purchases of pigs with these diseases are tragic because a phone call to either the state or the national SPF office could provide the prospective buyer with a free list of accredited SPF herds.

"For health purposes, SPF hogs are the same in all states that have an accredited program. Nebraska does have some extra requirements in regard to quality of the hogs. We strongly recommend that no buyer purchase hogs sight unseen. The seller should include an individual certificate with each animal that is dated no more than six months ago and preferably no more than three months," he said.

Socha points out that while about 60 farmers raise SPF hogs in Nebraska they haven't been the same 60 farmers over the years.

"Some have dropped out of the program and some have been dropped because of disease problems," he said.

Tough, Expensive
The inspection procedure is tough and expensive. In addition to visits by SPF fieldmen to the farm to inspect animals and facilities, a specific percentage of the hogs produced have to be shipped to one of two slaughter plants for additional inspection of the carcass to check for disease problems.

"I guess that if all the extra costs were compiled it costs as much as $30 per head extra to produce SPF hogs over a normal commercial operation. This is why SPF hogs have to be fairly high priced to be profitable," he explained.

Just how high the price is depends on the individual producer and the kind of hogs he has, but a rule of thumb is that gilts (young female) will sell for four or five times the normal price of slaughter hogs. A boar (male) may bring anywhere from $200 to more than $1,000 depending on his quality and current demand.

"We want to emphasize that SPF pigs are not necessarily disease free but they are free of the specific diseases we inspect for. We also check for lice, mange, bloody dysentery, TV, brucellosis and leptospirosis. Obviously, we check for any apparent unlisted disease and won't provide certificates for sick pigs," explained Dr. James Dunn, University of Nebraska veterinarian.

To establish an SPF herd a breeder must depopulate his herd for three months or longer, do some extensive cleaning, fumigating, till the soil in his pens and disinfect the place in general under a prescribed set of rules set up by the SPF organization.

Populating Procedure
Hogs can then be brought in from another accredited SPF herd or taken from their mothers in a surgical procedure and raised in a laboratory until they are large enough to make it on the farm.

Spotlight on Agriculture

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

This winter seems to be longer than previous winters, whether you live on the farm or in town.

Farmers faced with low livestock prices are loathe to give away their animals at current values but the high price of feed may force some into liquidation. You can't feed much $50-a-ton hay to a critter which won't bring the price of its groceries.

Folks in town faced with higher than usual food and fuel prices just know winter is longer than usual this year. The snow is certainly deeper than normal in Lincoln and Omaha.

Even the early arrival of seed catalogs with their colorful presentation of flowers and vegetables in untrue-to-life colors fails to produce much cheer.

Gardeners are finding that spring will be expensive and farmers have already received the same message.

Even a hoe handle is over two bucks, seeds are much higher, and that dream of your own tiller is likely to cost more than $200 for the tiniest model.

The rancher trying to make his feed supply last to spring is faced with the same kind of arithmetic on a larger scale.

You are not likely to get enough money from the calf you have to sell next fall to feed its mother from now until the calf is ready to market.

I don't know anyone who isn't looking forward to spring.

Here is a new organization for farmers. It is the East Central Farm Business Management Association. Limited to 100 members, it is a new opportunity for farmers interested in recordkeeping and in learning from the records they keep.

I used to belong to such an association in Minnesota and found it very worth while. It isn't free but it is well worth whatever it costs.

If you are interested, contact your local county agent soon because the limit of 100 members is quite real.

The Farmers Home Administration has some money to lend folks in rural areas and small towns to fix up their older homes.

Loans up to 33 years are available for insulating, repairing, remodeling and modernizing homes.

If the old homestead is in need of repair and you are in need of money to pay for it, you can get more information by writing the Farmers Home Administration, 430 Federal Office Bld., in Lincoln.

Missouri Congressman Jerry Litton did some fancy figuring and came up with a calculation that if farmers' profits were eliminated, the average citizen would save about 8 cents a day in spending money. Litton noted that farmers expenses are up 16% while his income is down 4% and the retail price of food went up 15% all at the same time.

Farming takes many turns. Take for example the North American Bait Farm at Ontario, Calif. They raise worms and are setting a worm race as a publicity stunt to raise some funds for the Cypress Orthopedic School for Crippled Children.

On March 16 they will get the affair going with television sets, radios, watches, and a lot of other stuff for prizes.

You can bring your own fleet crawler or they will supply you with a volunteer selected from their stock of fish bait.

In case you are heading out that way it is located between Pomona and Cucamonga. It's for real, honest.

It strikes cattle feeders as kind of odd that the same time the Food and Drug Administration allowed DES to be used in a morning after pill for birth control the Department of agriculture extended the time a farmer may not feed the growth stimulant DES to cattle before selling them to 14 days.

DES (diethylstilbestrol) has occasionally shown up in the livers of cattle and sheep but never in red meat tissue. When overwhelming doses of the stuff were given to laboratory animals such as rats and mice it caused cancer.

I don't know if anything will come of it, but there is some discussion of joint marketing programs between American and Brazilian soybean growers.

There have even been some suggestions that American and Canadian wheat groups could both benefit from some joint efforts to market high protein red winter wheats used to upgrade wheat in other nations by blending for better bread.

Such efforts are usually a long way between suggestion and fact but they can be beneficial to everyone concerned.

Weekly Grain Report

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Fall grain prices are on the minds of every farmer who is looking at prices of fuel, fertilizer, equipment and chemicals he must pay for now.

Most people in the grain trade either flatly refuse to make price predictions or talk around it like a political leader explaining his position before he knows yours.

I will stick my neck out a little and predict that the present price picture is about as good as we can expect unless we get some very dry weather this summer or lose a major portion of the crop to some kind of disaster or weather-related disaster.

Soybeans in particular look to be a crop that may bring less than it costs to grow on many farms because of increased supplies of oil and meal from competing crops such as palm oil and sunflower oil. More fish meal, livestock meal and a little less cottonseed meal in a bad livestock production climate doesn't do a thing to improve soybean price prospects, possibly in the $3.50 to $4.25 range for the 1975 crop.

Corn prices ought to stay close to the $2 mark unless the crop prospect goes sour when it could skyrocket.

Milo, oats, barley, rye and other feed grains will follow corn prices down a little and hold, barring weather problems.

Wheat prospects are not as good as the government touts the crop to be, so we could see a little improvement there but not much.

Furnace filters feel fatigue, too.

A clean furnace filter means energy savings...and a lower utility bill.

Your furnace has to work long hours to heat your home in the winter. But you can appreciably reduce the work load by changing or cleaning filters at least once a month. You'll stay more comfortable...without wasting energy. Keeping your filters clean will also keep the air in your home cleaner and can save you unnecessary maintenance and service calls.

Some Farmers Buy Hogs That Aren't Disease Free

By DOMINICK COSTELLO

Some Nebraska farmers are buying diseases along with breeding stock for hog operation because they don't understand the term SPF and how it applies to hogs.

"This is one of our real problems because it hurts the reputation of SPF hogs. Farmers think they are buying SPF hogs when they are not," said Tom Socha of the Nebraska SPF Association.

The term SPF means Specific Pathogen Free and applies to hogs that are rigidly inspected for a number of diseases including atrophic rhinitis and mycoplasma pneumonia, which have recently turned up in breeding stock sold to Nebraska swine producers by out of state hog salesmen.

One of the problems with diseases in hogs brought in from other states is that to detect atrophic rhinitis and mycoplasma pneumonia the hogs have to be killed. That obviously makes their use as breeding stock rather limited.

Affects Air Filtering

Atrophic rhinitis affects the air filtering system in the pig's nose, causing flu-like problems and eventually resulting in a bent nose. The pig is a poor eater and poor producer at best and may eventually die.

Socha points out that purchases of pigs with these diseases are tragic because a phone call to either the state or the national SPF office could provide the prospective buyer with a free list of accredited SPF herds.

"For health purposes SPF hogs are the same in all states that have an accredited program. Nebraska does have some extra requirements in regard to quality of the hogs. We strongly recommend that no buyer purchase hogs sight unseen. Socha points out that while about 60 farmers raise SPF hogs in Nebraska they haven't been the same 60 farmers over the years.

"Some have dropped out of the program and some have been dropped because of disease problems," he said.

Tough, Expensive

The inspection procedure is tough and expensive. In addition to visits by SPF fieldmen to the farm to inspect animals and facilities, a specific percentage of the hogs produced have to be shipped to one of two slaughter plants for additional inspection of the carcass to check for disease problems.

"I guess that if all the extra costs were compiled it costs as much as $30 per head extra to produce SPF hogs over a normal commercial operation. This is why SPF hogs have to be fairly high priced to be profitable," he explained.

Just how high the price is depends on the individual producer and the kind of hogs he

"We want to emphasize that SPF pigs are not necessarily disease free but they are free of the specific diseases we inspect for. We also check for lice, mange, bloody dysentery, TV, brucellosis and leptospirosis. Obviously, we check for any apparent unlisted disease and won't provide certificates for sick pigs," explained Dr. James Dunn, University of Nebraska veterinarian.

To establish an SPF herd a breeder must depopulate his herd for three months or longer, do some extensive cleaning, fumigating, till the soil in his pens and disinfect the place in general under a prescribed set of rules set up by the SPF organization.

Furnace filters feel fatigue, too.

A clean furnace filter means energy savings ...and a lower utility bill.

Your furnace has to work long hours to heat your home in the winter. But you can appreciably reduce the work load by changing or cleaning filters at least once a month. You'll stay more comfortable...without wasting energy.

Keeping your filters clean will also keep the air in your home cleaner and can save you unnecessary maintenance and service calls.

Greek Food Is Her Specialty

The Lincoln Star 6
Monday, March 3, 1975

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

"I love people and I love to entertain," the vivacious Victoria Douglas said as she arranged a variety of Greek pastries for sampling.

Whether a party or quiet dinner is on the Douglas agenda, the mother of Nebraska's new attorney general is always prepared with a wide variety of delicacies.

Mrs. Douglas prepares many kinds of dishes in advance "so I don't have to worry at the last minute."

Having come to the United States from Greece in 1926, Mrs. Douglas usually serves Greek food to guests "they seem to like it because it is different."

Always Prepared

Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas said that "bringing guests home for dinner doesn't throw her at all. She always has food prepared and in the freezer."

But that preparation takes time and Mrs. Douglas said she does spend much time in the kitchen cooking — one of her favorite pastimes.

Preparing the large array of food and Greek pastries for hundreds of campaign workers and friends at the Douglas household on election night last November was no problem, she said.

"As the election neared, the more nervous I became, the more I cooked."

Although Mrs. Douglas loves to entertain, she said, "We don't do as much as I like to because Paul's so busy."

Meals Interrupted

During the many years Douglas served in the Lancaster County attorney's office, Mrs. Douglas said that many a meal was interrupted by an accident call or homicide, which he would have to go out and investigate.

"Big dinners and holidays became a problem because Paul seemingly always would get called out on a holiday."

However, no matter how late the hour might become before her son's duties allow him to be home for the evening meal, Mrs. Douglas waits with the dinner.

Because "it's not enjoyable to eat alone."

She did a lot of cooking but very little eating when Douglas was on the campaign trail and out of town so much of the time.

Admitting that she doesn't like campaigning and the controversy which accompanies politics, the stately 67-year-old mother smiled with pride as she related incidents in handing out campaign buttons in behalf of her son.

"They asked me if I knew this man for a long time, and I just smiled and said, 'Yes, a long time — he's my son.'"

The sense of pride a mother feels about a successful son or daughter is different from what a wife feels for her husband, she said.

'More Responsible'

"As a parent you feel you had a greater part in that life and are more responsible for successes and failures," Mrs. Douglas said.

She said her husband, who was in the restaurant business, had come to this country in 1914 and had his Greek name changed to Douglas "long before" he returned to Salonika to marry her in 1926.

Having returned only once to Greece with her husband and son for a three-year period between 1930 and 1933, Mrs. Douglas hopes this summer to visit relatives still living in Athens and Salonika.

With only one cousin living in this country, Mrs. Douglas said she has made many friends and acquaintances here through participation in civic and social groups.

"I like to be friendly," she said, adding that she is now making new friendships as a member of the Legislative Ladies League.

The following recipes, one a dessert and the other a main course, are two of Mrs. Douglas' favorites.

Ravane

For sauce: 2 cups water 1/3 cup rum
1/4 cups sugar 2 1/4 inch orange slices with skin

Combine water, sugar and rum in saucepan. Add orange slices. Bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes. Cool.

For cake: 2 1/2 cups finely crushed walnuts 2 1/2 cups sugar
10 finely crushed zwiebacks 1/4 pound melted, unsalted butter

Combine walnuts and zwieback. Separate eggs. Beat egg whites until stiff — about 5 minutes. If copper bowl is not used, add 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar while beating. In another large bowl, add sugar to yolks and beat until thick and pale yellow — about 5 to 7 minutes. Fold egg whites into yolks. Slowly fold in walnut-zwieback mixture. Add orange rind and fold in. Add butter slowly and fold in. Pour mixture into buttered 11 by 9 inch pan. Bake at 350°F for 45 minutes, or until golden-brown and sides pull away from pan. Pour cooled syrup evenly over cake. Cut in diamond shapes. Makes about 30 pieces.

Moussaka

3 medium size eggplants 1 quart milk
1 cup butter or margarine 4 eggs, beaten until frothy
3 large onions, finely chopped 2 cups ricotta cheese
2 pounds ground lamb or beef 1 cup fine bread crumbs
3 tablespoons tomato paste 1 cup freshly grated parmesan cheese
1/2 cup dry red wine salt to taste
1/2 cup chopped parsley freshly ground pepper to taste
6 tablespoons flour

Peel eggplants and slice 1/2-inch thick. Brown slices quickly in a large heavy skillet in 1/2 cup butter. Remove from heat. Set aside. Heat 4 tablespoons butter in same skillet. Cook onions until lightly browned. Add ground meat. Cook 10 minutes. Combine tomato paste with wine, salt, pepper, stir into meat, simmer, stirring frequently, until all liquid has been absorbed. Remove from heat. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Melt 6 tablespoons butter in a large saucepan, blend in flour with milk. Meanwhile, bring milk to a boil, add and smooth, remove from heat. Cool slightly, stir in beaten eggs, and ricotta cheese. Grease an 11 x 16 oven-proof pan (2 1/2 inches deep, at least). Sprinkle bottom lightly with bread crumbs. Arrange alternate layers of eggplant and meat in the pan. Sprinkle each layer with parmesan cheese and bread crumbs, about 2 layers each of meat and eggplant. Pour ricotta cheese sauce over the top. Bake 1 hour or until golden. Remove from oven, cool slightly before cutting into squares to serve. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Average Household Shrinking

Washington (AP) — The Census Bureau reported that the proportion of Americans living alone continues to increase, dropping the average size of the nation's households below the three-person level for the first time in history.

The average size of households, which are defined as any group of people living in a single housing unit, has declined steadily from more than 5 persons per unit in the late 1970s to the current level of 2.97 computed on the basis of a March survey by Census.

The average household size had stabilized at about 3.3 during the post-World War II baby boom before resuming its decline in the mid-60s.

Census attributed the latest trend to a host of factors, including smaller families, more effective birth control methods, tendency to delay marriage until a later age and "changing attitudes regarding the expansion of the roles of women beyond those of wife and mother."

Thus the number of people living alone now totals 13.3 million out of a population of about 213 million, the latest Census report said. The number of people living alone has jumped three million over the last five years, with 23% of that increase coming in the most recent year.

With 69,859,000 households in the nation, that means 19.1% of the households consist of one person living alone. Five years ago, when households numbered 61,805,000, that percentage was 16.7.

People 65 and over still represent the largest chunk of the live-alone population: 5.7 million. But 46% of the increase over the last five years has been in the youngest of the three census brackets. The number of people under 35 living alone is now 2.7 million.

Used Clothing Demand Up, But Less Is Being Donated

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

The recession has increased demand at the various used clothing outlets in Lincoln — but has also limited supply.

The Junior League Thrift Shop has had a 25% to 30% increase in business in recent months, while other used clothing outlets have also seen increased demands this winter, according to spokesmen.

Operators of some of the used clothing shops feel that their donated items have suffered in both quality and quantity due to the recession and increased numbers of garage sales.

Local sources noted that many organization rummage sales have also suffered because individuals and neighborhood groups are organizing garage sales to realize the profit themselves while others are continuing to use items they formerly gave away.

No Sales Tax

They also are now able to avoid the hassle of getting a sales tax permit and paying sales tax as a result of legislation passed last year.

Under provisions of LB820, individuals or groups of individuals holding garage sales or sales in a private residence need not pay sales tax on those sales up to three days a year.

According to the State Department of Revenue, this three-day limit could mean either three one-day sales or one three-day sale.

An employee for the Disabled American Veterans store said that garage sales have definitely decreased donations but the quality has been affected more than quantity.

"We don't get as many calls now until after the garage sales and then we get the leftovers," she said.

Men's work clothing, women's apparel and shoes have been high on the demand list at the DAV store, she said.

Leslie E. Bailey of Goodwill Industries said Goodwill hasn't been "hurt very much with local garage sales."

"Goodwill probably has the largest garage sale of anybody in town at its three local outlets," he said.

According to the executive director of Goodwill Industries, John P. Gedwillo, the organization gains when Goodwill is called to pick up unsold merchandise from garage sales.

"Although the concept of selling discarded material perhaps originated with Goodwill, we feel that individuals certainly have the privilege of free enterprise in conducting their own sales," he said.

Tax Deduction

He also noted that it is advantageous to many people to contribute the materials outright to an authorized agency because of the tax deduction permitted for donating such items to a nonprofit, charitable organization.

A Salvation Army spokesman said that items donated to its four stores had declined in quantity in recent months but that there was no apparent change in the quality of the items.

Neither he nor Mrs. Luella Hurley of the Community Emergency Shop, which furnishes items to needy families through the welfare department, could say that the cutbacks in donated goods were directly related to garage sales.

Junior League Thrift Shop workers said that the Junior League had not noticed a particular decline in the amount of merchandise but noted that much of its business is done on a consignment basis.

For any item selling for $5 or more, the donor receives one-half of the sale price, a spokesman said, adding that since most of the Thrift Shop goods come from Junior League members and local merchants, the supply had not been affected in the same way others had.

The Vienna Coup is a Marquis declarer deliberately makes a defender's card a winner and then squeezes him out of it.

Here is an example from a match between Egypt and Finland in 1968, where Zananiri and Omar Sharif held the North-South cards for Egypt and got to seven spades.

West led a trump and Sharif—the well-known movie star who makes no secret of the fact that he'd rather play bridge than act—had to try to find a way of avoiding the obvious club loser.

This task did not prove insurmountable. Applying his versatile talents to the business at hand, Sharif proceeded to render his opponents helpless.

He drew three rounds of trumps, cashed the A-K of diamonds and ruffed a diamond. Then he played a club to the ace — a Vienna Coup establishing the king — before returning to dummy with a heart to produce this position:

Declarer now cashed dummy's trumps, discarding his clubs, and West found himself inexorably squeezed on the last trump. He discarded a heart and Sharif won the last three tricks with the K-Q-9 of hearts.

At the second table, the Finnish declarer, Touminen, also got to seven spades and made the grand slam by the same squeeze to produce a sensational standoff on the hand.

Reader Suggests Abby Set Up 'Swap Shop'

DEAR ABBY: You could perform an even greater service than you do with your advice column if you were to set up a "Dear Abby Swap Shop."

The Dear Abby Swap Shop, which could be called "DASS," could arrange swaps between mates. For example, the wife of Gutless in New York, who complained because she was still a virgin after a year of marriage, could swap mates with one of those gals who is always complaining because her husband won't leave her alone long enough to get her housework done.

And that poor 44-year-old wife who is dead tired from working a 10-hour shift in a laundry could swap her Louie, who acts like he's still a teen-ager, for man like "Enough is Enough," who's all burned out at the age of 50.

There are lots of couples who need to swap mates, and you and DASS could do it, Abby. What do you say?

ORIGINATOR OF DASS
DEAR ORIGINATOR: Thanks a lot, but there's enough swapping going on without my starting a swap shop. In other words, "DASS" ist nicht fur mich.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 64-year-old woman who has been going with a wonderful 69-year-old gentleman. He says he loves me, needs me, and wants to marry me.

I care for him so much, but here is my problem. When we first met, I told him I had been widowed once and divorced once, as I had no intentions of getting involved with him, but here is the story of my life.

When I was 17, I had a baby boy out of wedlock whom my mother kept until I married the following year. I had another child with this husband, and was divorced four years later.

I married a second time and was divorced eight years later. No children. I married a third time and had two sons. That marriage lasted 22 years. My husband deserted me. After that I couldn't go out with another man until I met the one I'm going with now.

He is pressing me for an answer, and I don't know how much of my past I should tell him.

Although I was married and divorced three times I was never untrue to any of my husbands. This man says he hates a liar, so I'm afraid I'll lose him if he finds me to be one. Help me.

"D. IN PHILADELPHIA

DEAR D.: There is no substitute for honesty. Tell him of your past marriages and divorces, but don't go into the details. Explain that had you known that your relationship would develop into a serious one, you'd have been more factual, but you were reluctant to tell a comparative stranger that you were a three-time loser. He'll understand.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18, and the youngest of all the women in our family. I am also the only unmarried woman in the family and I intend to stay that way. Do you want to know why?

Because all my sisters' husbands do is insult them. I never heard one of those husbands compliment his wife on anything. Just insults is all I hear. So what I want to know is, why are men always insulting their wives?

STAYING SINGLE

DEAR STYING: Don't judge all men by your sisters' husbands. Either they're all losers, or your sisters don't deserve any compliments. Familiarity doesn't always breed contempt.

DEAR ABBY: Is there a rule anywhere that says a wedding cake HAS to be white?

I understand that the outside of the cake should be white, but what if the bride and groom both like chocolate cake and decide on having a chocolate wedding cake with white frosting?

My son was recently married, and he and his bride had a chocolate wedding cake with white icing. It was beautiful and delicious, but a friend of mine remarked that the cake should have been WHITE — inside and out.

Frankly, I really don't care, but I just want to know if this was improper.

GROOM'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER. The cake was all right. The criticism was improper!

MRS. DOUGLAS . . . always has food in freezer.

Ravanie

For sauce:
2 cups water
1/4 cups sugar

1/3 cup rum
2 1/4-inch orange slices with skin

Combine water, sugar and rum in saucepan. Add orange slices. Bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes. Cool.

For cake:
2 1/2 cups finely crushed walnuts
10 finely crushed zwiebacks
8 eggs

2/3 cup sugar
grated rind of one orange
1/4 pound melted, unsalted butter

Combine walnuts and zwieback. Separate eggs. Beat egg whites until stiff — about 5 minutes. If copper bowl is not used, add 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar while beating. In another large bowl, add sugar to yolks and beat until thick and pale yellow — about 5 to 7 minutes. Fold egg whites into yolks. Slowly fold in walnut-zwieback mixture. Add orange rind, and fold in. Add butter slowly, and fold in. Pour mixture into buttered 11 by 9 inch pan. Bake at 350F for 45 minutes, or until golden-brown and sides pull away from pan. Pour cooled syrup evenly over cake. Cut in diamond shapes. Makes about 30 pieces.

1 quart milk
4 eggs, beaten until frothy
2 cups ricotta cheese
1 cup fine bread crumbs
1 cup freshly grated parmesan cheese salt to taste
freshly ground pepper to taste

Peel eggplants and slice 1/2-inch thick. Brown slices quickly in a large, heavy skillet in 4 tablespoons butter (more as needed). Set aside. Heat 4 tablespoons butter in same skillet. Cook onions until lightly browned. Add ground meat. Cook 10 minutes. Combine tomato paste with wine, parsley, salt and pepper; stir into meat; simmer, stirring frequently, until all liquid has been absorbed. Remove from heat. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Mix 8 tablespoons butter in a large saucepan; blend in flour with wire whisk. Meanwhile, bring milk to a boil, add and smooth, remove from heat. Cool slightly; stir in beaten eggs, and ricotta cheese. Grease an 11 x 16 oven-proof pan (2 1/2 inches deep, at least). Sprinkle bottom lightly with bread crumbs. Arrange alternate layers of eggplant and meat in the pan. Sprinkle each layer with parmesan cheese and bread crumbs (about 2 layers each of meat and eggplant). Pour ricotta cheese sauce over the top. Bake 1 hour or until golden. Remove from oven; cool slightly before cutting into squares to serve. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

The Junior League Thrift Shop has had a 25% to 30% increase in business in recent months, while other used clothing outlets have also seen increased demands this winter, according to spokesmen.

Operators of some of the used clothing shops feel that their donated items have suffered in both quality and quantity due to the recession and increased numbers of garage sales.

Local sources noted that many organization rummage sales have also suffered because individuals and neighborhood groups are organizing garage sales to realize the profit themselves while others are continuing to use items they formerly gave away.

No Sales Tax

They also are now able to avoid the hassle of getting a sales tax permit and paying sales tax as a result of legislation passed last year.

Under provisions of LB820, individuals or groups of individuals holding garage sales or sales in a private residence need not pay sales tax on those sales up to three days a year.

According to the State Department of Revenue, this three-day limit could mean either three one-day sales or one three-day sale.

An employee for the Disabled American Veterans store said that garage sales have definitely decreased donations but the quality has been affected more than quantity.

"We don't get as many calls now until after the garage sales and then we get the leftovers," she said.

Men's work clothing, women's apparel and shoes have been high on the demand list at the DAV store, she said.

Leslie E. Bailey of Goodwill Industries said Goodwill hasn't been "hurt very much with local garage sales."

"Goodwill probably has the largest garage sale of anybody in town at its three local outlets," he said.

According to the executive director of Goodwill Industries, John P. Gedwillo, the organization gains when Goodwill is called to pick up unsold merchandise from garage sales.

"Although the concept of selling discarded material perhaps originated with Goodwill, we feel that individuals certainly have the privilege of free enterprise in conducting their own sales," he said.

Tax Deduction

He also noted that it is advantageous to many people to contribute the materials outright to an authorized agency because of the tax deduction permitted for donating such items to a nonprofit, charitable organization.

A Salvation Army spokesman said that items donated to its four stores had declined in quantity in recent months but that there was no apparent change in the quality of the items.

Neither he nor Mrs. Luella Hurley of the Community Emergency Shop, which furnishes items to needy families through the welfare department, could say that the cutbacks in donated goods were directly related to garage sales.

Junior League Thrift Shop workers said that the Junior League had not noticed a particular decline in the amount of merchandise but noted that much of its business is done on a consignment basis.

For any item selling for $5 or more, the donor receives one-half of the sale price, a spokesman said, adding that since most of the Thrift Shop goods come from Junior League members and local merchants, the supply had not been affected in the same way others had.

The Vienna Coup is a Marquis de Sade type of play where declarer deliberately makes a dummy with a heart to produce this position:

Here is an example from a match between Egypt and Finland in 1968, where Zananiri and Omar Sharif held the North-South cards for Egypt and got to seven spades.

West led a trump and Sharif—the well-known movie star who makes no secret of the fact that he'd rather play bridge than act—had to try to find a way of avoiding the obvious club loser.

This task did not prove insurmountable. Applying his versatile talents to the business at hand, Sharif proceeded to render his opponents helpless.

He drew three rounds of trumps, cashed the A-K of diamonds and ruffed a diamond. Then he played a club to the ace — a Vienna Coup establishing the king — before returning to

Reader Suggests Abby Set Up 'Swap Shop'

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: You could perform an even greater service than you do with your advice column if you were to set up a "Dear Abby Swap Shop."

The Dear Abby Swap Shop, which could be called "DASS," could arrange swaps between mates. For example, the wife of Gutless in New York, who complained because she was still a virgin after a year of marriage, could swap mates with one of those gals who is always complaining because her husband won't leave her alone long enough to get her housework done.

And that poor 44-year-old wife who is dead tired from working a 10-hour shift in a laundry could swap her Louie, who acts like he's still a teen-ager, for man like "Enough is Enough," who's all burned out at the age of 50.

There are lots of couples who need to swap mates, and you and DASS could do it, Abby. What do you say?

ORIGINATOR OF DASS
DEAR ORIGINATOR: Thanks a lot, but there's enough swapping going on without my starting a swap shop. In other words, "DASS" ist nicht fur mich.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 64-year-old woman who has been going with a wonderful 69-year-old gentleman. He says he loves me, needs me, and wants to marry me.

I care for him so much, but here is my problem. When we first met, I told him I had been widowed once and divorced once, as I had no intentions of getting involved with him, but here is the story of my life.

When I was 17, I had a baby boy out of wedlock whom my mother kept until I married the following year. I had another child with this husband, and was divorced four years later.

I married a second time and was divorced eight years later. No children. I married a third time and had two sons. That marriage lasted 22 years. My husband deserted me. After that I couldn't go out with another man until I met the one I'm going with now.

He is pressing me for an answer, and I don't know how much of my past I should tell him.

Although I was married and divorced three times I was never untrue to any of my husbands. This man says he hates a liar, so I'm afraid I'll lose him if he finds me to be one. Help me.

* D. IN PHILADELPHIA
DEAR D.: There is no substitute for honesty. Tell him of your past marriages and divorces, but don't go into the details. Explain that had you known that your relationship would develop into a serious one, you'd have been more factual, but you were reluctant to tell a comparative stranger that you were a three-time loser. He'll understand.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18, and the youngest of all the women in our family. I am also the only unmarried woman in the family and I intend to stay that way. Do you want to know why?

Because all my sisters' husbands do it insult them. I never heard one of those husbands compliment his wife on anything. Just insults is all I hear. So what I want to know is, why are men always insulting their wives?

STAYING SINGLE
DEAR STYING: Don't judge all men by your sisters' husbands. Either they're all losers, or your sisters don't deserve any compliments. Familiarity doesn't always breed contempt.

DEAR ABBY: Is there a rule anywhere that says a wedding cake HAS to be white?

I understand that the outside of the cake should be white, but what if the bride and groom both like chocolate cake and decide on having a chocolate wedding cake with white frosting?

My son was recently married, and he and his bride had a chocolate wedding cake with white icing. It was beautiful and delicious, but a friend of mine remarked that the cake should have been WHITE — inside and out.

Frankly, I really don't care, but I just want to know if this was improper.

GROOM'S MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: The cake was all right. The criticism was improper!

1 Killed, 2 Injured In Omaha Brawl

Omaha (UPI) — An Omaha man was dead, two persons hospitalized and charges were pending against several others Sunday following what police called a day-long "drunken brawl" Saturday.

Police identified the victim as James Pappan, 22, who was dead on arrival Saturday evening at a hospital from a shotgun wound suffered at close range outside a near downtown Omaha apartment complex.

James A. Phillips, 35, and his wife, Patricia, 35, were taken to a hospital with injuries suffered in altercations following the shooting.

Police said Pappan was allegedly involved in an argument with Phillips' wife when Phillips came outside the building with a shotgun.

Phillips, police said, was booked on suspicion of homicide.

Police said the apartment was the scene of several disturbances in the past, and a police spokesman said most of those involved were either on welfare or drawing social security.

Officers said when they arrived Mrs. Phillips was holding the shotgun and temporarily refused to relinquish it.

Officers said the weapon was originally grabbed by a man who began beating Phillips with it. The investigation was continuing to determine if the man would be charged with misdemeanor assault.

Police said Pappan's sister, Nettie, was booked for public drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Harold Drapeau, police said, was booked on failure to disperse and obstructing the administration of the law.

The police spokesman said when officers arrived there were 10 to 12 persons outside the building "and just how many were at the party, we just don't know."

"The argument had been working its way up all day," the spokesman said. "It was a drunken brawl."

Lincolnite Satisfactory With Gunshot Wound

A 28-year-old Lincoln woman was listed in satisfactory condition Sunday with injuries suffered during a domestic quarrel early Saturday morning, police Lt. Al Maxey said.

Young Man Found Dead Along Road

Gering (UPI) — The body of an unidentified young man was discovered Sunday afternoon near a county road northeast of Scottsbluff.

An autopsy was ordered to determine how and when the man died, according to Scotts Bluff County Sheriff David Schleve.

Schleve declined to comment on whether foul play was involved.

He estimated the dead man was between the ages of 20 and 30, and said the body was not decomposed.

Sheriff's deputies were called to the site near a county road bridge over an irrigation canal just south of Little Lake Alice, Schleve said.

The sheriff said in a release that a Scotts Bluff County resident had reported the body.

Maxey said the Henry couple had been sitting with several people in the lounge area of the Hollywood Bowl when the argument developed.

Police said Mrs. Henry's assailant fired two or three shots at the woman.

Mrs. Henry's husband, Wendell V., 31, was arrested in connection with the shooting incident, Maxey said, and the county attorney is planning to file charges Monday.

Police said the charges probably will be assault with a deadly weapon.

Maxey said Mrs. Henry will undergo surgery Tuesday.

Police said Saturday morning that the suspect called police headquarters from a telephone booth at 48th and Prescott and turned himself in.

The suspect allegedly left his gun on the hood of the car parked at the phone booth, police said.

Beet Negotiations To Continue

Lyman (UPI) — Ray Lind, president of the Nebraska Beet Growers Assn., said negotiations on a 1975 contract between growers from five states, including Nebraska, and the Great Western Sugar Co. of Denver, would resume Tuesday in Denver. "Great Western told us if meaningful and sincere negotiations took place, they would make an announcement of a payment," Lind said. "If they make an announcement, the money should be in the hands of the growers within a week."

Three Deaths Result Of Traffic Accidents

By United Press International
Two persons died in weekend traffic accidents on Nebraska highways and an Omaha woman died from injuries suffered in a Friday mishap.

The victims were identified as Martin K. Smith, 23, Brock, and Michael Whitten, 21, and Mrs. Paul Schuchart, 65, both of Omaha.

Smith was killed when his east bound car spun out of control and crashed off Neb. 67 Saturday night about one mile east of Brock in Nemaha County. Officers said the Smith car rolled several times before coming to rest.

The passenger in Smith's car, Glenn A. Guenther, 22, of the Johnson-Brock area, was injured.

Mrs. Schuchart died in an Omaha hospital Saturday from injuries suffered when the car driven her husband stuck a truck in West Omaha Friday afternoon.

Police said Mrs. Schuchart's injuries didn't originally appear to be serious. Her death was the first traffic fatality for Omaha in February. The last traffic death had been recorded on Jan. 18.

Police said Mr. Schuchart was ticketed for making an illegal turn and escaped serious injury as did the truck driver, Glen F. Belt, Omaha.

Whitten died at an Omaha hospital Saturday, seven hours after his car turned in front of another driven by Andrew Stewart, 30, Omaha.

Stewart and a passenger in Whitten's car, Ronald J. Seyboth, 20, Omaha, escaped serious injury, while the other passenger with Whitten, George H. Jansen Jr., 26, Omaha, remained hospitalized in fair condition.

Fraternity's Dancer Causes Ripples

Omaha (UPI) — The Creighton University Committee on Student Discipline is expected to meet later this month to decide what action, if any, will be taken against a fraternity who retained a nude dancer for a party.

The Rev. Michael Sheridan, dean of students, said the action by the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity was in "very poor taste" and that the fraternity was "responsible to the university."

Mark Jansa, fraternity president, said the dancer was retained for a Feb. 18 party to welcome the fraternity's 30 new pledges.

Jansa said because of the "uproar" the incident has created, the fraternity won't resort to such entertainment in the future. He said the fraternity "regretted" the incident but, on the other hand, there was considerable "over reacting" to it.

A spokesman for the Creighton Interfraternity Council said "some form of disciplinary action" will be taken against the SAE's.

The Rev. Sheridan said he didn't believe the fraternity realized "there are a lot of people who are sensitive about this thing" when the SAE's hired the dancer to shed her clothes.

The Committee on Student Discipline is composed of students, faculty and administrators.

Nebraska Bankruptcies Top Average

Omaha (UPI)—The number of bankruptcy filings in Nebraska last year was greater than the national average, according to statistics compiled by the Center for Applied Urban Research at the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

The survey showed bankruptcies in Omaha were up 52% in 1974 from 1973 and statewide showed a 36% increase over 1973.

Nationwide, there was a 25% hike in bankruptcy filings.

In Omaha last year, there were 752 personal and business bankruptcies compared with the 1973 total of 495. Statewide, the total last year was 2,202, compared with 1,622 in 1973.

General reasons for the increased filings included inflation and rising unemployment and a greater awareness among the public of the debt paying relief offered by the bankruptcy court.

Finances Make Tech Colleges Issue Critical

By GENE BLACKLEDGE
Associated Press Writer

The current controversy over Nebraska's technical community colleges is critical this year because of financial problems facing the schools, but has been brewing since 1971.

That was the year the Legislature merged community colleges and the technical schools into a statewide system.

Immediate answers must be found for the question of how to finance the technical community colleges, since the Nebraska Supreme Court last June declared a statewide property tax unconstitutional that had helped support the schools since the merger.

The real dilemma facing legislators, though, is what role the 11 technical community college campuses should plan in the state's total higher education system.

Operational Control

The Legislature could vote to provide total state support, but many senators have said that will not be done unless the state has control over the operation of the colleges.

Two bills have been offered to solve the problem.

Sidney Sen. Robert Clark's LB128 would provide for total state funding, but would merge the technical community colleges and the four state colleges.

The technical community colleges favor the other proposal, offered by Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora. His LB344 would leave control of the schools with the area boards and finance operations through a combination of local taxes and state funds.

Kremer says control of the state money would be provided by an advisory council proposed in his bill.

To Advance At Least One

The Education Committee, which is considering both bills, has not sent either proposal to the floor, but Frank Lewis, chairman, said the committee would try to advance at least one of the bills next week.

Lewis said the real problem started when the Legislature decided to merge the tech schools with the community colleges.

"With the two kinds of schools thrown together, you have to develop curriculum not only in terms of what vocational courses to offer, but also to provide general courses in the areas of the state without a regular college nearby," he said.

The differences between the eastern and western parts of the state further complicate the problem.

"In the metropolitan Omaha area, with four private schools and one university, to have the vocational technical college offer the same kind of courses across town is very obviously a duplication of service," Lewis said.

Distinction Blurred

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings said the merger has blurred the distinction between vocational and community colleges.

"Vocational technical schools are inclined to move towards emphasis in academic fields. That results in overlap with junior colleges and the state colleges. On the other hand, the junior colleges are moving into the vocational education area," Marvel said.

He favors a combination of the two bills offered, which would provide some state control but include local contributions.

"You are not going to have a firm local interest unless you have some local input," Marvel said.

Hurting Enrollment?

Some senators contend the junior colleges are hurting enrollment at the state colleges, but Marvel disagreed.

"In North Platte when they started the junior college they didn't take students from Kearney State College. There were more students interested," he said.

It's impossible to say whether either of the two approaches offered to solve the funding problem will also resolve the identity crisis of the infant technical community college system.

Unless one of the bills or a combination of the two is adopted, senators face a $26.7 million operations budget request for fiscal 1975-76 from the technical community colleges.

"We have to resolve it this session," Marvel said. "If we don't it will be total state support."

Jackson Agrees

(c) New York Times
Washington — Sen Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., an announced presidential contender, said he was in basic agreement with the Ford administration on stand-by authority to deal with another oil embargo and would "move promptly" to send a bill to the Senate floor.

Draft Evaders From Nebraska Expected To Enter Amnesty Plan

Omaha (UPI)—At least one draft evader from Nebraska is expected to turn himself in this week to the U.S. Attorney's Office here to take advantage of President Ford's conditional amnesty program, which was extended Friday.

And Assistant U.S. Atty. Thomas Thalken said he believed a second draft evader from Nebraska, who crossed the Canadian border last week, would perhaps come forth later in the week.

That would bring to five the number who have returned to Nebraska to take alternate service under the President's program.

Thalken said 20 former Nebraskans still reside in Canada, but added he doubted they would accept conditional amnesty at this late date.

Each has been informed by letter of the terms of the program, according to Thalken.

In addition, he said, formal charges of draft evading have been dismissed for technical reasons in favor of two other Nebraskans.

He said two others have gone overseas, one to Australia, and the other to England.

Three young Nebraskans have already taken advantage of the program.

Two are working 20 months alternate service, one in Lincoln, and the other at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha. A third, Thalken said, has accepted 24 months alternate service work at Seattle, Wash.

Catholic Shot In Belfast Bar

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP)—A 22-year-old Roman Catholic was shot and seriously wounded Sunday, apparently in an escalating feud between rival factions of the Irish Republican Army.

The victim was drinking with friends at a Belfast bar when a hooded gunman burst in and fired several shots, police said.

A spokesman for the IRA Official wing identified the gunman as a member of a newly formed splinter group, the Irish Republican Socialist Party—IRSP.

How to get pleasure from being broke

Being broke is a state of mind, that is until your checks start bouncing all over. Then it is a state of confusion. Until you can move to another state, think of all the positives:

- It's inexpensive.
- You don't have to look for change.
- Your relatives won't call.
- You can paint your feet—save on shoes.
- You can create a mural—connect the cracks in your ceiling.

Remember, being broke means never having to say "I'll pay."

Finances Make Tech Colleges Issue Critical

By GENE BLACKLEDGE
Associated Press Writer

The current controversy over Nebraska's technical community colleges is critical this year because of financial problems facing the schools, but has been brewing since 1971.

That was the year the Legislature merged community colleges and the technical schools into a statewide system. Immediate answers must be found for the question of how to finance the technical community colleges, since the Nebraska Supreme Court last June declared a statewide property tax unconstitutional that had helped support the schools since the merger.

The real dilemma facing legislators, though, is what role the 11 technical community college campuses should plan in the state's total higher education system.

Operational Control

The Legislature could vote to provide total state support, but many senators have said that will not be done unless the state has control over the operation of the colleges.

Two bills have been offered to solve the problem.

Sidney Sen. Robert Clark's LB128 would provide for total state funding, but would merge the technical community colleges and the four state colleges.

The technical community colleges favor the other proposal, offered by Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora. His LB344 would leave control of the schools with the area boards and finance operations through a combination of local taxes and state funds.

Kremer says control of the state money would be provided by an advisory council proposed in his bill.

To Advance At Least One

The Education Committee, which is considering both bills, has not sent either proposal to the floor, but Frank Lewis, chairman, said the committee would try to advance at least one of the bills next week.

Lewis said the real problem started when the Legislature decided to merge the tech schools with the community colleges.

"With the two kinds of schools thrown together, you have to develop curriculum not only in terms of what vocational courses to offer, but also to provide general courses in the areas of the state without a regular college nearby," he said.

The differences between the eastern and western parts of the state further complicate the problem.

"In the metropolitan Omaha area, with four private schools and one university, to have the vocational technical college offer the same kind of courses across town is very obviously a duplication of service," Lewis said.

include local contributions.

"You are not going to have a firm local interest unless you have some local input," Marvel said.

Hurting Enrollment?

Some senators contend the junior colleges are hurting enrollment at the state colleges, but Marvel disagreed.

"In North Platte when they started the junior college they didn't take students from Kearney State College. There were more students interested," he said.

It's impossible to say whether either of the two approaches offered to solve the funding problem will also resolve the identity crisis of the infant technical community college system.

Unless one of the bills or a combination of the two is adopted, senators face a $26.7 million operations budget request for fiscal 1975-76 from the technical community colleges.

"We have to resolve it this session," Marvel said. "If we don't it will be total state support."

Jackson Agrees

(c) New York Times
Washington — Sen Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., an announced presidential contender, said he was in basic agreement with the

Ford administration on stand-by authority to deal with another oil embargo and would "move promptly" to send a bill to the Senate floor.

Draft Evaders From Nebraska Expected To Enter Amnesty Plan

Omaha (UPI)—At least one draft evader from Nebraska is expected to turn himself in this week to the U.S. Attorney's Office here to take advantage of President Ford's conditional amnesty program, which was extended Friday.

And Assistant U.S. Atty. Thomas Thalken said he believed a second draft evader from Nebraska, who crossed the Canadian border last week, would perhaps come forth later in the week.

That would bring to five the number who have returned to Nebraska to take alternate service under the President's program.

Thalken said 20 former Nebraskans still reside in Canada, but added he doubted they would accept conditional amnesty at this late date.

Each has been informed by letter of the terms of the program, according to Thalken.

In addition, he said, formal charges of draft evading have been dismissed for technical reasons in favor of two other Nebraskans.

He said two others have gone overseas, one to Australia, and the other to England.

Three young Nebraskans have already taken advantage of the program.

Two are working 20 months alternate service, one in Lincoln, and the other at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha. A third, Thalken said, has accepted 24 months alternate service work at Seattle, Wash.

Catholic Shot In Belfast Bar

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP)—A 22-year-old Roman Catholic was shot and seriously wounded Sunday, apparently in an escalating feud between rival factions of the Irish Republican Army.

The victim was drinking with friends at a Belfast bar when a hooded gunman burst in and fired several shots, police said.

A spokesman for the IRA Official wing identified the gunman as a member of a newly formed splinter group, the Irish Republican Socialist Party—IRSP.

Three young Nebraskans have already taken advantage of the program.

Two are working 20 months alternate service, one in Lincoln, and the other at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha. A third, Thalken said, has accepted 24 months alternate service work at Seattle, Wash.

Final Home Games

You won't find either Steve Erwin or Kent Reckewey listed in the Nebraska basketball press guide section on records.

They didn't set any records during their three-year careers as Huskers. They basically played in the shadows of other players, although Erwin was a starter since his sophomore season.

Yet when those two are introduced at Wednesday night's NU Coliseum contest against Kansas, it will mark the final Lincoln appearances for two Nebraskans who did so much for coach Joe Cipriano's basketball program.

Both were high school standouts — one from a small northeastern Nebraska school and the other from a large Lincoln high school.

Erwin earned all-state honors in football and basketball at Laurel. He had numerous college offers but decided to stay in Nebraska and attend NU.

Never blessed with exceptional basketball talent, Erwin made hustle and desire keys to starting with the Huskers. Steve never had the "super-ability" that most of the players he guarded possessed. He never let that interfere with his determination to guard his opponent.

Helped NU Teams

His offensive production was not impressive. As a sophomore he averaged 3.1 points with a 13-point output against Kansas State his best. As a junior, he averaged 6.7 with a 24-point game against Minnesota-Duluth his tops.

It was appropriate that his 15-foot basket against Oklahoma State last Wednesday at Stillwater produced the winning points as Nebraska stopped the Cowboys, 59-58.

Earlier this season after Nebraska lost its second straight road game, a 72-44 debacle at Kansas, Erwin called a meeting of Husker players. He wanted to discuss the NU situation with his teammates.

It was that type of leadership that made Steve Erwin a vital member of the Huskers.

Kent Reckewey, meanwhile, was a reserve throughout his Nebraska career. He started three games as a sophomore, and none as a junior or senior.

It's important to realize one aspect to the controversy surrounding Reckewey's reserve status. It's sometimes difficult for players to duplicate their high school achievements while playing for a major college.

Reckewey was undoubtedly one of the finest shooters in Nebraska high school ranks in many years. But East keyed its attack towards helping Reckewey, and shots that Reckewey had in high school were suddenly denied him by 6-9 forwards in college.

It would have been easy for him to transfer to a smaller school. But Kent wanted to major in pre-med and Nebraska was his choice for his undergraduate work. He achieved nearly straight A's at NU.

Steve Erwin and Kent Reckewey were never all-star players at Nebraska. Yet they more than compensated for that by their dedication to the Nebraska program. That's what made them competitors.

Yarborough Wins

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (UPI) — Cale Yarborough breezed to victory in the Carolina 500 stock car race Sunday as wrecks and mechanical failures knocked most of the other top drivers out of contention.

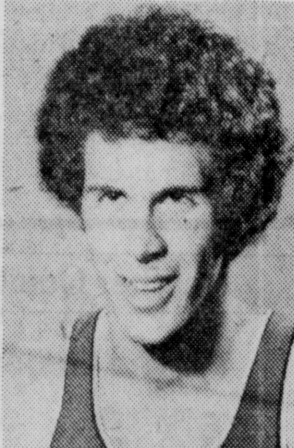

Yarborough had his Chevrolet a lap ahead of the pack for the last 200 miles with the exception of a six-lap stretch when David Pearson led after Yarborough made a pit stop.

The victory, which gave the Timmonsville, S.C., driver

$14,200, was Yarborough's first at a super speedway since last year's Labor Day race at Darlington, S.C.

Pearson put his Wood Brothers Mercury in second place while Richard Petty, plagued by mechanical problems, finished third, seven laps behind.

Dick Brooks finished fourth in a Ford and Richard Childress was fifth in a Chevrolet, but both drivers were at least a dozen laps behind Yarborough.

Murphy Overcomes Nicklaus For Win

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus suddenly lost his putting touch. He had three-putted four times. He had blown a three-shot lead. He had missed the green on the 18th hole.

And, trailing Bob Murphy by a single shot, he desperately needed some dramatics to get back in the chase in the $260,000 Jackie Gleason Golf Classic.

So he chipped in for a birdie. It didn't intimidate Murphy at all.

"I thought 'Well, now ain't this just beautiful,'" Murphy said later. "Where does it stop? What do you have to do?"

He found the answer. He rolled in a 12-foot birdie putt right on top of Nicklaus' effort, then hit a spectacular eight-iron shot a quarter-roll of the ball from the cup for another birdie on the 17th.

He had it won. "I was as cool as could be while we were playing," said Murphy, who scored his first victory in five years. "But, when I reached in the cup on the 18th, my hand was shaking so badly I could hardly get the ball out."

Murphy, who spent most of last season with his hand in a cast because of tendon damage, won by a single stroke over 22-year-old Eddie Pearce and by two strokes over the struggling Nicklaus.

Murphy, who collected $52,000, finished with a four-under-par 68 and a 273 total, 15 under par on the windswept, 7,128-yard Inverrary Country Club course.

Pearce, who thought he had won the tournament with a birdie on the final hole, had a 71-274 total, one shot back.

Nicklaus, the leader after the third round, had a three-stroke lead at one point late in the round but let it get away. He hit one out of bounds and double-bogeyed the 14th hole, then bogeyed the par-five 15th and dropped back to third at 275. He had an erratic, last-round 73.

Veteran Miller Barber was next, shooting a 68-276. Lee

Trevino's 66, easily the best round of the windy day, produced a 277 total and a tie with U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin, who closed with a 70.

Arnold Palmer, the 45-year-old master seeking an end to a two-year victory drought, finished poorly.

Playing in a threesome with Murphy and Nicklaus, Palmer had a 74-279. He was tied with Tom Weiskopf, who bogeyed two of his last three holes for a 73.

Johnny Miller, a three-time winner this season and the outstanding player of the game for the last year, did not compete in this, the richest event on the tour.

The red-haired Murphy started three strokes back and said he didn't think he had much chance until Nicklaus' troubles began on the back nine.

"When he three-putted the 14th I knew it was my tournament to win," Murphy said. Results Page 10

Kelley Sees District As Start Of 'New Season'

By RANDY YORK

Prep Sports Editor

The Thunderbolts own a rather average 9-9 record as they begin defense of their state Class B championship against Wahoo Tuesday night in district play at Gretna.

The mark doesn't discourage Kelley though.

"We're down to the point of a second season now and we're neither counting on anything nor conceding anything," he said.

"Teams are going to have to beat us," added Kelley. "We're not going to give anything away. Wahoo is a very respectable foe and we're going to have to play well to beat them."

Kelley's the first to admit his Thunderbolts have experienced an up-and-down season.

"In all sincerity, we've played excellent basketball at times. We've also played some terrible basketball at times," he observed.

"I think our kids have shown they can get up for the big games, but not for the others," Kelley said. "We haven't shown any consistent mental preparation."

"In fact," he said, "we've been beaten by some mediocre and in some respects, some very poor basketball teams. But we hope that's behind us."

The 'Bolts showed signs during a late season stretch that they could compete with most anyone until Omaha Gross derailed that momentum over the weekend.

During a 4-game stretch against Holdrege, Cozad, Lexington and Omaha Cathedral, Kelley described Pius X's play as commendable.

"We played our best game of the season at Lexington," Kelley said. "I'm not all that discouraged with the loss at Gross. We'd played four games in six days and traveled to Lexington, Cozad and Omaha. We were all tired."

Not counting two losses in December, Kelley points out that "our other seven losses have gone down to the last minute of the ball game. We haven't been out of a game since the Aurora game in the Central City Holiday Tournament."

Shooting has been Pius X's strong suit all season with Mitch Ohnoutka the leader with a 15-point average. Paul Tlamka is averaging 13, Mike Peters 10, Kent Krause 8 and Rick Sullivan 6.

Kelley has been masterful in getting his teams to peak around district tournament time. He's qualified three teams for the state tournament in his first seven years at Pius X.

While the Thunderbolts compete in Gretna this week, Lincoln will host two district tournaments.

Pershing Auditorium is the site of the Class A-1 district with Lincoln High and ninth-ranked Lincoln Northeast battling Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Fourth-ranked Lincoln East and fifth-ranked Lincoln Southeast battle Thursday night. The district finals are Saturday night.

Nebraska Wesleyan's Ira Taylor Gym at 53rd and Huntington Sts. is the site of the Class B-1 district, opening Monday with third-ranked Fairbury against Syracuse at 7 p.m. and Falls City against Nebraska City at 8:30 p.m.

Auburn and Superior are matched Tuesday at 7 p.m. with sixth-ranked Crete and Norris following at 8:30 p.m. Semifinals are Thursday at 7 and 8:30 p.m. and the finals Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Peru St. Athletes To Raise Own Funds

PERU, Neb. (AP)—Members of men's athletic teams have been given until March 17 to raise sufficient funds to maintain schedules for spring sports at Peru State College in southeastern Nebraska.

Athletes were informed by coaches last week of an administrative decision to cancel spring sports because funds were not available to cover the upcoming seasons.

The baseball, track, golf and tennis teams are involved. Women's sports are not affected. School officials said the budget for the women's programs has not been overspent.

Dr. Douglas Pearson, Peru president, told the athletes in response to a request that they could attempt to raise the $2,000 needed if fund-raising efforts are "conducted within guidelines not curtailing Peru Achievement Foundation and Bobcat Booster Club campaigns."

The $2,000 figure was set as the minimum budget required. Team members have been contacted by southeastern Nebraska businessmen and fans voicing support of the fund-raising efforts.

Members of the P-Club, an organization of Peru lettermen, will meet Monday to discuss campaign plans.

The spring teams are continuing practice programs. School officials said the high school invitational track meet scheduled April 4-5 will not be affected.

Class C Regionals Scheduled

Seven of eight Class C regional basketball playoff sites were determined over the weekend.

Palmyra and Louisville are the only two Class C teams without a playoff site. The two schools are expected to agree on one — most likely Nebraska Wesleyan — on Monday.

Four Class D sites also were confirmed Sunday. The 32 lower class teams are competing this week for 16 state tournament berths — eight in each class.

Playoff pairings, with prep editor Randy York's selections in bold face type, include:

Parker Collects Perfect Game

By BOB MOYER

Finally.

One by one, Doug Parker, whose bowling scores compare favorably with anybody's in Lincoln, has watched his friends get 300 games.

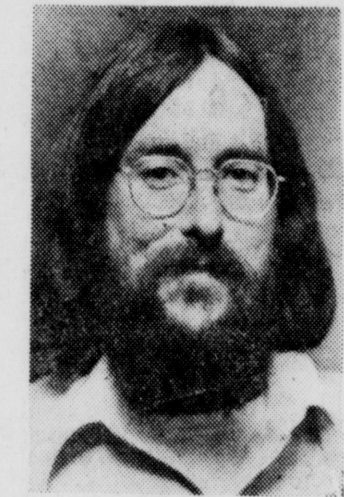

But Sunday it was the other's turn to watch. Sunday morning at Plaza, Parker had his day, recording a 300 game.

"Afterwards I just kept thinking to myself, 'you've finally got it,'" said Parker. "It's the greatest thing a bowler can have happen to him. It's always been my ambition, my life's dream to get a 300 game."

Parker has been close before. "I've had three or four 279 games this year. But I'd always make some dummy mistake."

The difference this time?

"I got lucky. I stole a Brooklyn (a strike on the two-pin side of the head pin) in the fourth frame," said Parker whose average is 204 in the Sunday league.

Parker said he thought about getting the 300 after his first strike. "I told myself to just keep on concentrating. Plus I always considered myself one of Lincoln's halfway decent bowlers and knowing that other guys I bowl with have done it, helped me to believe that I could do it," he said.

This has been by his own admission Parker's best year in bowling — despite the fact he is not actually a regular member of any team.

"For me it's mainly just concentration," Parker noted. "I decided I'd just have to try harder if I wanted to bowl better."

It's worked. Recently Parker had his best city tournament ever, finishing third in all events behind Bill Straub and Joe Peterson with a 1993 total — an average of 221 per game, including a 714 series in doubles.

Parker, bowling on lanes 3 and 4, said he was bowling over second arrow but had "three or four boards play. I told myself on the last shot to just get the ball out over my mark."

He becomes the sixth bowler to shoot 300 this year. Three others, Roger Heffelfinger, Tom Vint and Joe Peterson, have recorded perfect games in the Sunday morning league.

Although Parker concedes the lane conditions on Sunday morning are good, he feels that alone does not explain the number of

NCAA Adds UNO

By The Associated Press

Ten basketball teams, including the University of Nebraska at Omaha were selected by the National Collegiate Athletic Association for participation in regional playoffs bringing to 32 the number that will be vying for the national title in the college division.

The University of Nebraska at Omaha will play in its first NCAA tournament next weekend. Athletic Director Don Leahy Sunday night accepted the invitation extended by the NCAA for the Mavericks to take part in the North Central District Division II playoff at Grand Forks, N.D.

The Mavericks, who finished their regular season with a record of 16 victories and ten defeats, will meet Augustana College of Sioux Falls, S. D., in the opener Friday night.

North Dakota University and Missouri-Rolla are matched in the nightcap, with the winners playing Saturday night.

Two Goals Reached By Trainer Staroscik

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Grand Island — Larry Staroscik wanted to be a horse trainer. His parents wanted him to get a college education. So he did the most equitable thing — both of them.

After graduating from what was then Columbus St. Bonaventure High School, Staroscik earned a degree in Pharmacy from the University of Nebraska in Lincoln in 1965. But his first job in pharmacy didn't last very long.

"I only worked in an Omaha hospital for two weeks before I started training horses," he said. "My folks wanted me to get a college education in case I didn't make it in training or I didn't like it. They wanted me to have something to fall back on."

"If I wanted to go back into pharmacy, I'd probably have to take a few refresher courses," he continued. "I still might go back to it if my horses were to go bad. But I really don't have any regrets about going into training."

It's something I've always wanted to do."

He's been successful at the horse business.

Staroscik, only 31 and one of the youngest trainers on the Nebraska circuit, won the training title two years at the State Fairgrounds meet in Lincoln and annexed the Columbus championship last season.

Although he campaigns basically in Nebraska, Staroscik has also had his stable in Detroit and Chicago. He adds that he would like to give racing's "big-time" a try at such places as Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, Ark., but that stall space is practically impossible for someone who has not been there previously.

Expecting 23 horses when his entire stable is assembled here, Staroscik trains for several owners and has a wide range of competitors.

old, Great Commander underwent ankle surgery in the fall of 1973 at Kansas State University and was somewhat below par last season.

John Truscott of Omaha owns Liffally, a 5-year-old mare best known for her sprinting abilities and Florida Rose.

Dr. Quattrocci, a Columbus dentist, employs Staroscik to train Nebraska Arc, a 3-year-old nominated for Fonneer Park's Nebraska Derby and 5-year-old Mr. Sun Rite.

Les Horn's Felicity Queen, finished third on opening-day last week here in the first division of the Inaugural Handicap to Miss Mundo and Sweet Disarco. The 3-year-old filly won stakes last year at Columbus and Atokad Park.

Among horses Horn owns in partnership with Chet Young are 4-year-olds Horns Lady and Gamblin Frank, six-year-olds Toshiara and B. K. Boy and 3-year-old Heartbeat.

While training for several owners can occasionally create problems, Staroscik noted he has no difficulties training for such a diverse group of owners.

"The people I train for are easy to get along with and I never have any trouble keeping them all happy," he said.

Staroscik employs five grooms and two exercise boys. The usual day begins with galloping 22 horses, brushing and cleaning the runners, a visit from the horseshoer and then dinner around 5 p.m. for the horses.

It's a long day that often times starts at 6 a.m. and doesn't end until the horses in the last race are ready for bed.

Nevertheless, Staroscik has no qualms about delaying his entrance into the horse business.

"I'm glad I went to school. When I was there Devaney (then head football coach Bob) was starting at Nebraska and he had those great teams," Staroscik said. "I'm fortunate to have been able to go to school and get into training."

TENNIS

Swedish standout Bjorn Borg escaped serious injury apparently as a result of wearing a seat belt when he was blinded by headlights from an oncoming car and drove off the road, turning over several times near the central Swedish city of Falun.

Australia wrapped up a 4-0 victory over New Zealand in the Davis Cup Eastern Zone final and will now meet the winner of the European Zone B finals at a date and place to be decided.

American Arthur Ashe came from one-set down to knock off crowd favorite Tom Okker, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, in the finals of this week's WCT Green Group Tournament in Rotterdam.

Dick Stockton of Dallas beat Stan Smith on the eighth match point, 7-5, 2-6, 7-6, for the $12,000 first prize in the WCT San Antonio Classic and his first tournament win this season.

BASKETBALL

The SEC coaches voted Alabama's C. M. Newton as conference coach of the year.

A Camden, N.J., High School athlete was shot in the chest following a tense championship game with Atlantic City High and is reported in serious condition.

BYU coach Glen Potter, a former assistant at Nebraska, said he hasn't yet decided whether suspended forward Brian Frishman will be allowed to play in the team's final two games.

The Israeli team arrived in New York to begin an eight-game tour of the U.S.

Top-rated Kentucky State hiked its record to 24-2 by defeating three opponents in college division play, while No. 3 Bentley improved to 2-1 with one win and No. 2 Jackson State, 24-3 and No. 4 Gardner-Webb, 23-3, were idle.

BASEBALL

Orioles owner Jerry Hoffberger assured the players of the AL team that the club would play in Baltimore this year, the Miami Herald reported.

Jim Palmer threw batting practice for the first time and impressed the Orioles' coaching staff during his 15-minute workout.

BOXING

Heavyweight contender Ken Norton, his scheduled March 24 bout against Oscar Bonavena canceled, takes on Reco Brooks this week in Oklahoma City.

After his devastating second-round knockout victory over Mexico's Jesus "Papelero" Estrada in Los Angeles in his first WBC featherweight title defense, Bobby Chacon dropped the names of David Kotey and Ruben Olivares as possible future opponents.

SPEED SKATING

Sheila Young of Detroit shattered his own world record in the four-sprint event, finishing with 172.540 points in the Golden Stakes of Inzell competition in Germany.

OTHER SPORTS

Kim Peyton of David Douglas High School in Portland, Ore., broke her own national interscholastic swimming record in the girls' 200-yard freestyle, winning in 1:50.3 in a meet at Eugene.

Police tear-gassed over-enthusiastic fans at the National Stadium at Karachi, Pakistan, when they stormed the field to congratulate a Pakistani cricketer.

Pacer Skys Tiger collapsed and died halfway through the feature race at Yonkers Raceway, N.Y., but paid off as a winner anyway because the 5-year-old was part of an entry.

Formerly unranked Heidi Hemmi of Switzerland forged ahead of the favorites in the first run of the men's giant slalom in the last day of World Cup Ski Racing in Whistler Mountain, B. C.

An American team bolstered by four world record holders, will face a Soviet team, missing some of its top talent, in the U.S.-U.S.S.R. indoor track meet at Richmond, Va.

The U.S. team includes Rick Wohlhuter in the 880, high jumper Dwight Stones, hurdler Charles Foster and shot-putter Al Feuerback.

Sweden's Ingemar Stenmark took his second straight World Cup giant slalom victory, and earned second place in the overall behind Gustavo Thoeni.

A. J. Foyt won the first of two 100-mile qualifying races at Ontario Speedway, while Wally Dallenbach captured the second race.

A Sports Roundup

TENNIS

Swedish standout Bjorn Borg escaped serious injury apparently as a result of wearing a seat belt when he was blinded by headlights from an oncoming car and drove off the road, turning over several times near the central Swedish city of Falun.

Australia wrapped up a 4-0 victory over New Zealand in the Davis Cup Eastern Zone final and will now meet the winner of the European Zone B finals at a date and place to be decided.

American Arthur Ashe came from one-set down to knock off crowd favorite Tom Okker, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, in the finals of this week's WCT Green Group Tournament in Rotterdam.

Dick Stockton of Dallas beat Stan Smith on the eighth match point, 7-5, 2-6, 7-6, for the $12,000 first prize in the WCT San Antonio Classic and his first tournament win this season.

BASKETBALL

The SEC coaches voted Alabama's C. M. Newton as conference coach of the year.

A Camden, N.J., High School athlete was shot in the chest following a tense championship game with Atlantic City High and is reported in serious condition.

BYU coach Glen Potter, a former assistant at Nebraska, said he hasn't yet decided whether suspended forward Brian Frishman will be allowed to play in the team's final two games.

The Israeli team arrived in New York to begin an eight-game tour of the U.S.

Top-rated Kentucky State hiked its record to 24-2 by defeating three opponents in college division play, while No. 3 Bentley improved to 2-1 with one win and No. 2 Jackson State, 24-3 and No. 4 Gardner-Webb, 23-3, were idle.

BASEBALL

Orioles owner Jerry Hoffberger assured the players of the AL team that the club would play in Baltimore this year, the Miami Herald reported.

Jim Palmer threw batting practice for the first time and impressed the Orioles' coaching staff during his 15-minute workout.

BOXING

Heavyweight contender Ken Norton, his scheduled March 24 bout against Oscar Bonavena canceled, takes on Reco Brooks this week in Oklahoma City.

SKATING

Masayaki Kawahara, a 19-year-old Japanese, won the world junior title in the north Swedish town of Stromsund and Heiki Lange of East Germany captured the women's crown.

Sheila Young of Detroit shattered his own world record in the four-sprint event, finishing with 172.540 points in the Golden Stakes of Inzell competition in Germany.

OTHER SPORTS

Title Kept By Duran

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Champion Roberto Duran knocked challenger Ray Lampkin of Portland, Ore., unconscious midway through the 14th round Sunday to defend successfully for the sixth time his World Boxing Association lightweight crown.

Lampkin remained unconscious several hours after the bout had ended.

The devastating blow caught Lampkin flush on the jaw. He went down hard, slamming his head on the canvas before being counted out.

But Lampkin, who apparently wanted to stop after the eighth round, could not be revived by attendants. Although he appeared to regain consciousness briefly about 20 minutes later, Lampkin lapsed back into unconsciousness.

The 27-year-old loser was taken by stretcher from the ring and hospitalized at the Caja del Seguro Social Clinic. A clinic spokesman said, "He is still unconscious but showing positive signs and reflexes."

The 23-year-old Duran was making the sixth successful defense of the World Boxing Association title he won by knocking out Ken Buchanan of Scotland in 1972. The World Boxing Council recognizes Guts Ishimatsu of Japan as lightweight champion following his victory over Buchanan last week.

Duran, heavily favored in the bout, recorded his 49th victory in 50 pro fights. It was the 42nd knockout for Duran, nicknamed "Hand of Stone" for his punching ability.

He was the aggressor throughout much of the bout but failed to discourage Lampkin, who countered Duran's hard rights with sharp left jabs. There were no other knockdowns but both fighters slipped several times.

Duran appeared to take charge of the fight in the later rounds as Lampkin tired in the 80-degree temperatures and high humidity.

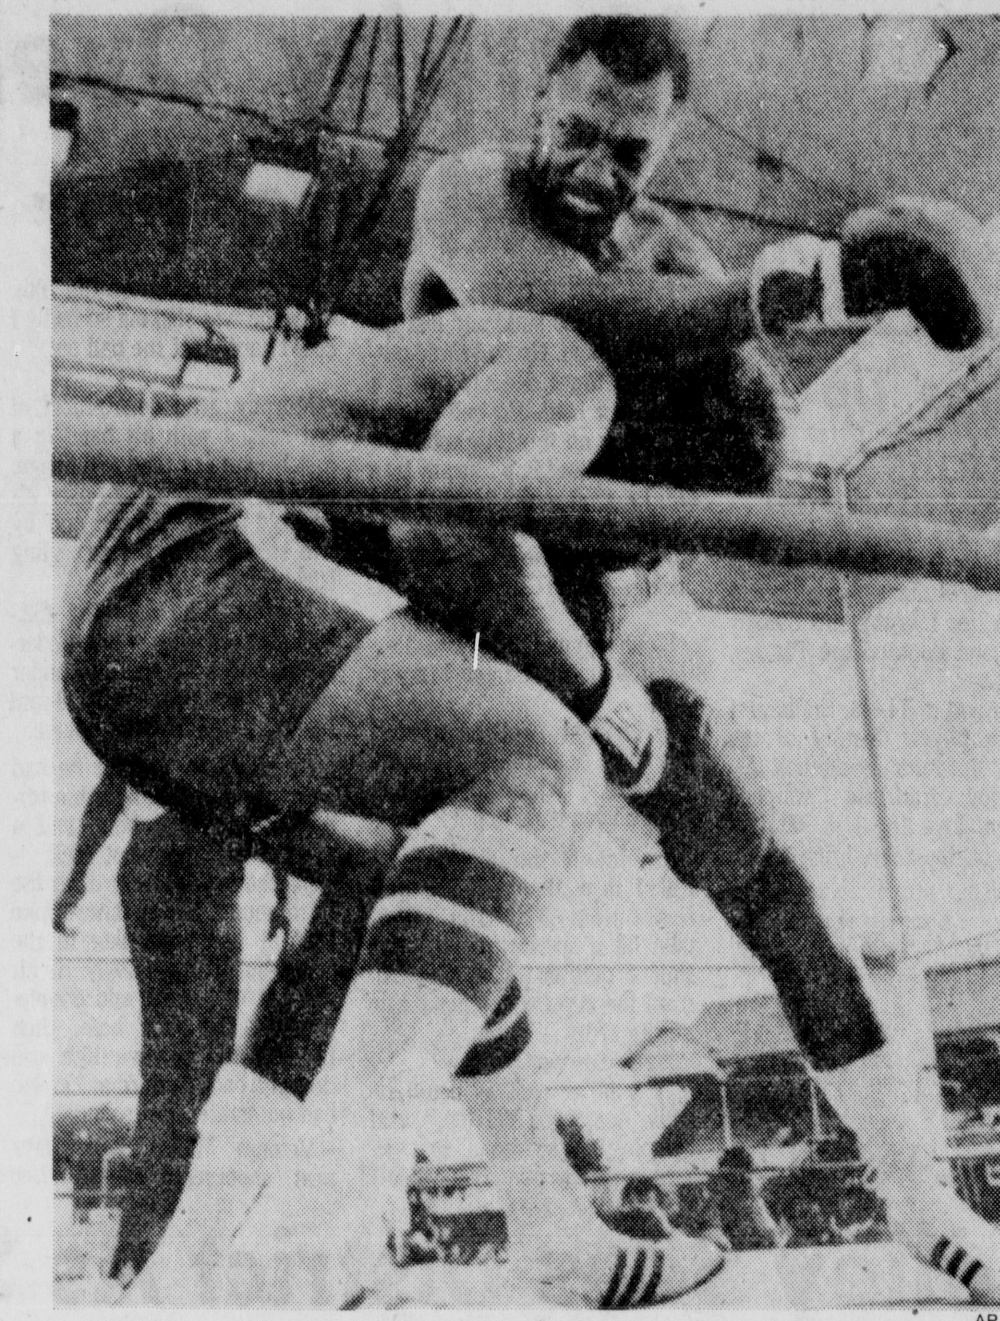

Duran opened a cut over the challenger's right eye in the later rounds and Lampkin was also bleeding slightly from the nose.

Many Fans Injured

Karachi Pakistan (AP) — Police used nightsticks and tear gas to break up crowds of fans who stormed the National Stadium cricket field to congratulate a player. Officials reported "many injuries" on both sides, but gave no figures.

Joekel Leading Scorer

After splitting a pair of games in Denver, the Nebraska Wesleyan basketball team closed their season 11-12 on the year, and in fourth place in the NIAC with a 4-6 conference record.

The Plainsmen rallied from a 14-point halftime deficit to shade Metropolitan State, 76-74, Thursday night, on five late-game points by Blake Butler and two clinching free throws by Tom Maupin.

The following night, Regis completely dominated the game, as NWU dropped their finale 92-70.

With 6-9 Butler playing the entire second half with four fouls, Regis' Tony DuCros, a 6-8 center, hauled in 30 rebounds and hit a game high 20 points to pace the Rangers.

Steve Joekel was the high scorer for the Plainsmen against Regis hitting 16 points, and the former Lincoln East senior finished the season as NWU's leading scorer, averaging 16.9.

Joekel also led last year's 14-10 team with 20.6 points per game.

Butler, a sophomore from Minden, was the year's leading rebounder averaging 12.7 per game, and, of the regulars, also had the top field goal percentage of .467.

Maupin, a former Lincoln Northeast grad, was the most accurate free throw shooter among the regulars hitting 76.3 per cent from the line.

Fairbury senior Gene Parks was second in scoring and rebounding as he, Joekel, and Maupin will all be lost for next year to graduation.

Kansas, Kansas State Remain Deadlocked

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas State, Kansas and Missouri have survived another round in the Big Eight Conference basketball race . . . just by the skin of their teeth.

All three teams won Saturday, none by more than two points. K-State held Iowa State's fabulous point-producer, Hercle Ivy, to just 12 points and nipped the Cyclones 70-68.

Kansas, with Rick Suttle finding the range for a season high 30 points, nudged Colorado 78-76, and Missouri, despite a 35-point performance by Oklahoma's Alvan Adams, edged the Sooners 88-87. Nebraska and Oklahoma State were idle.

Thus, the campaign goes into its final week with K-State and Kansas deadlocked for first place, each with 9-3 records, and Missouri, 8-4, still a game behind in third place. Nebraska, 7-5, assured itself of no worse than a tie for fourth earlier in the week by slipping past O-State 59-58.

It took a layup by Chuckie Williams with 32 seconds to go to lift the Wildcats to their triumph over the Cyclones in a regionally televised afternoon battle at Manhattan, Kan.

The pressure applied by guards Mark Baxter and Mike Evans and late in the struggle by Williams contained Ivy for the first time this season. Williams picked up 28 points for the Wildcats.

Wildcat Coach Jack Hartman said he wouldn't "accept the fact that Ivy just had a bad day. I credit our defense with holding him to 12 points. Baxter had a heck of a job for a freshman — to start and cover the conference's leading scorer."

Kansas, playing the Buffs at Colorado, was outscored from the floor but cashed in on 16 of 23 free throws for the margin of victory. Suttle, in addition to his 30 points, grabbed 12 rebounds.

This week's schedule:
Wednesday — Iowa State at Oklahoma; Kansas State at Missouri; Colorado at Oklahoma State; Kansas at Nebraska.

Saturday — Oklahoma at Kansas, afternoon; Missouri at Colorado; Nebraska at Iowa State; Oklahoma State at Kansas State.

Lincoln Duo Garner Lead
Fremont — Lincoln keggers Roger Heffelfinger and Monte Steenson bowled 1,307 at The 30 Bowl here Sunday to take the scratch doubles lead in the men's state bowling tournament.
The score was one pin higher than the total the duo amassed two years ago at Hastings when they won the state tourney.
Steenson had a 707 series, while Heffelfinger added 600. In addition Steenson had 1,852 in all events for second place after two weeks of action in the tourney, while Heffelfinger had 1,770, good for fourth place.
Roger Florum of Lincoln rolled a 1,905 to take the overall lead in the all-events after the first eight weekends of the tourney.
Misty Lounge holds third place in the team standings.

'No Pat Solution'—Ed Board Member

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

What did she learn?

"There are no pat solutions to schools and society's problems," said Pearl Goldenstein, "but a lot of people are working on them and we really need to keep working on them."

The "lot of people" Mrs. Goldenstein referred to were nearly 17,000 educators who attended the American Association of School Administrators convention last weekend in Dallas, Tex.

A member of the Lincoln Board of Education, Mrs. Goldenstein was one of about 100 Nebraskans who traveled to one of the nation's leading forums on education the elementary and secondary school level.

Lincoln 'Well Off'

After chatting with board members from across America and attending some of the 120 discussion groups on topics ranging from school finance to the curriculum, Mrs. Goldenstein concluded, "I think we're pretty well off" in Lincoln.

"Maybe we've even shown a little leadership" nationally, she said, explaining that school architecture models exhibited "were pictures of what we're doing now" in Lincoln.

She noted that Park Ridge, Ill., educators were in Lincoln Wednesday observing junior high operations "with the idea that we've got some good things" after which to pattern their schools.

Supt. John Prash said the discussion sessions mashing varying techniques "were very useful."

For example, an early childhood education seminar "gave me some good information" as a follow-up to a major local conference on the subject last fall, "and will be helpful in our planning."

Prash is president of the Nebraska Council of School Administrators executive committee.

Financial Concerns

Nationally, he said, "one of the major concerns" that emerged in Dallas "is related to fiscal matters and budgets that fall short of needs with inflation coming on. We have some of the same concerns, but I would gather we're better off than most districts."

Nor does Lincoln share the massive problems districts are facing after sharp enrollment drops are leaving empty school buildings dotting the map, he said.

There was "a great deal of concern," he said, "about possible legislation at the federal level to control negotiations" for teacher contracts, particularly in that it splits administrators and teachers, as adversaries.

A related concern is "court actions that seem to erode local control," Prash said. "The general complaint is that (while) we have a public concern because kids aren't behaving as well as they ought to, we are also getting less support from other agencies."

Discussion Sessions

Board member Marvin Stewart, who also attended the Texas convention, cited the practicality of the discussion sessions, particularly one on school accountability.

"Accountability is communication," Dr. Stewart said, and is essential for the "stockholders, who are the patrons of the school system."

"I think we're doing very well as far as financial accountability" in Lincoln, Stewart said. Innovative areas, too, are accountable "to those who receive the services," such as personalized instruction or special education.

Accountability to the public for quality education "is a dual responsibility of the management team and classroom educators," Stewart said. "This area in Lincoln, in my opinion, needs considerable effort."

In methods for student evaluation, "I think Lincoln is ahead of most" districts nationally, he said.

Omaha Westside Supt. Vaughn Phelps, president-elect of the national association, who presided over much of the convention business, said, "I think education in the nation, as far as the public schools are concerned, have got great successes on which they can build."

Building Troubles

Schools have been "plagued" in certain areas resulting in unmet expectations, Phelps said, because "they've not been very well financed." For example, in Nebraska under LB403, districts "have really done a yeoman's job of building (special education) programs in just a one-year period," despite controversy over insufficient state funding and payments.

"There are still some of the perennial problems in education," Phelps said, including governance, the judicial process and student rights and collective bargaining.

State financial equalization programs, he said, are "tending to destruct some of the best school systems in the U.S.," by requiring reductions in their teaching staffs, thus allowing funds to "improve poorer schools at a faster pace."

"I hope that Nebraska continues to improve the school systems... that need additional support," Phelps said. "But in turn, I hope that (state senators) don't, by doing so, take other (good) school systems and injure them."

Phelps said he observed more women administrators participating in the convention this year, the first time in 40 years it was moved from Atlantic City, N.J., and featuring a new delegate assembly of state representatives.

More women administrators attended, Phelps observed.

Because there was strong participation in the discussion groups, he said he'll emphasize more of them when he heads the association next year.

Crowd Roars As New Chief Vows Changes

LANGSTON, Okla. (AP) — Sammy Davis, sworn in as this tiny central Oklahoma town's police chief Sunday, slapped a pistol strapped to his side and drawled: "They gone be some changes 'round heah."

The packed Langston University auditorium roared with laughter.

The new chief's first official act was to tell Mayor A. B. Prewitt, "There's going to be a $10,000 check at your disposal to attend to the needs of this community."

Davis, chairman of the entertainment committee of the Negro College Fund, also said he was underwriting two scholarships to the predominantly black university, adding: "I never had one day of formal education — not grade school, not no school."

It was the third time in recent months that a black entertainer had become police chief of a predominantly black Oklahoma town of less than 1,000 population. Redd Foxx was first at Taft and Flip Wilson at Boley.

Asked what his reaction will be the first time he is called "pig" because of his chief's badge, Davis said: "Being Jewish, that does present a problem."

Israel Signals It's Ready To Deal

©The New York Times

Tel Aviv — Defense Minister Shimon Peres suggested Sunday night that Israel would return the Abu Rudeis oilfields and two strategic mountain passes in Sinai to Egypt on the condition that President Anwar el Sadat openly and directly pledge an end of belligerence against Israel.

The Egyptian leader had said recently that he would not make such a commitment directly to Israel but might do so to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

In an interview at his office Sunday night, Peres, a member with Premier Yitzhak Rabin and Foreign Minister Yigal Allon of Israel's negotiating team, declined to say what precise form an Egyptian pledge would have to take. He said:

"I would not like to go into this right now. It's too early. I would simply say that it must be an agreement done at noon, in broad light, and between the two parties concerned."

Asked whether this procedure would preclude an American role, Peres replied, "A role, no, but as a replacement, yes."

Spelling out further demands for an Egyptian guarantee of nonbelligerence made to Israel rather than to the United States, he said:

"We are not going to marry the father-in-law or someone like that, we are going to marry the girl. I mean let her agree, somewhere, somehow." His emphasis was on the word "her."

Lincoln Police Report Four Weekend Rapes

Three Lincoln women reported they were raped over the weekend, according to police.

A 29-year-old woman reported she was raped twice early Sunday morning, according to police Lt. Al Maxey.

A 28-year-old Lincoln man has been jailed in connection with the second assault, Maxey said.

The woman was at a party near 22nd and S when the first rape occurred, Maxey said.

A man who observed the assault offered to take her home, but when they got in the alley between 22nd and 23rd and S and T he also raped her, Maxey said.

The woman was in Lincoln General Hospital for observation of bruises to her head and face.

Maxey said a suspect was being sought in connection with the first assault.

A girl, 16, was raped near 56th and Stockwell early Sunday morning, according to police reports.

Police said the girl left a party in the area with a youth who stopped the car they were in and raped her.

The youth was described as a white male, 18 years old, 6 feet tall, with a slender build and blond hair.

Police said the other rape occurred early Saturday morning when a 21-year-old woman was attacked and raped on the N. 10th viaduct over the railroad tracks.

The assailant was described as a white male, about 19, wearing blue jeans, a denim jacket and a blue bandana covering his mouth and nose.

Police said the man would have a bite mark on his left forearm where the woman "took a chunk out of him."

Four Killed At Resort; Suspect Held In Oregon

Smith River, Calif. (AP) — A man with a high-powered rifle killed four persons and wounded three others when he opened fire at a motel-trailer court in this salmon fishing resort Sunday, police said.

Robert Paul Sanders, 21, Cincinnati, Ohio, was arrested several hours after the shootings near Grants Pass in southern Oregon and was charged with the four slayings. He was booked into the Josephine County jail.

Smith River is near the Oregon border and Grants Pass is about 70 miles northeast of the California fishing village.

A man with a high-powered rifle opened fire on a parking lot at the Ship Ashore Resort in Smith River at 11:30 a.m., wounding a maid at the motel-restaurant-trailer court complex.

He then entered the lobby and started shooting. Del Norte County sheriff's deputies said in police broadcasts that four persons were killed and three others wounded, two seriously.

First reports from deputies at the scene said the motel manager and his wife were among the dead, but there was no immediate confirmation.

A spokeswoman at Seaside Hospital in Crescent City said two persons were being treated there for gunshot wounds.

Governor Wins Swedish Honor

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Gov. Wendell R. Anderson has been named "Swedish-American of 1975" by the two Swedish chapters of the Vasa Order of America.

Prince Bertil of Sweden announced the honor at a luncheon in Minneapolis. Anderson, governor of the state with the largest Swedish population, is in his second term.

He will receive the award during a visit to Sweden this summer. The governor and his wife Mary will be guests of the Swedish government.

Houchins said he may seek new charges including assault with intent to commit murder and assault with a deadly weapon on a police officer against Little and Remiro.

The sheriff said Deputy Larry Franks, 32, remained in fair condition Sunday after a pencil was surgically removed from his throat. Sgt. Robert Jensen, 44, was released by Merritt Hospital after an eye wound was stitched.

Houchins gave this account of the incident:

As Remiro was being led to an interview room, he turned at the door and attacked Jensen. Little, who was inside the room being interviewed by a defense attorney, then charged out and attacked Franks.

In an ensuing melee, Houchins said, Jensen's right eye was gouged and he was beaten about the head with a sheriff's office microphone. A pencil was stabbed into Franks' throat, penetrating several inches into his mouth.

By the time two other deputies could subdue Remiro and Little, the prisoners had inserted a key in the locker where the deputies lock their pistols while working as jailers, he said.

"I seriously doubt they could have gotten out," Houchins said, but added that Remiro and Little will be handcuffed for such visits in the future.

Officials said the prisoners were examined by a doctor but were not injured.

During the brief incident, Oakland police and sheriff's deputies ringed the courthouse.

The SLA has claimed responsibility for the ambush slaying of Foster. In a series of communiques after the kidnapping of newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst, the terrorist group referred to Remiro and Little as its "soldiers."

He said Russell Little and Joseph Remiro took the cabinet keys from one of two deputies they overpowered outside a visiting room Saturday evening. One of the deputies had a pencil jammed into his throat and the other suffered an eye wound.

Little and Remiro are awaiting trial on murder charges in the Nov. 6, 1973, assassination of Schools Supt. Marcus Foster.

Chopped Chuck Price Shows Dip

By The Associated Press

Declining beef prices caused by an increased number of cattle coming to market helped consumers save money on the family grocery bill during February, an Associated Press market-basket survey showed.

The price of chopped chuck in many cities was below what it was two years ago when consumers started planning the one-week meat boycott that began April 1.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the prices on March 1, 1973, at a supermarket in each of 13 cities and has checked at the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed that the overall bill went down in February in nine cities, declining an average of 2.4%. The bill went up in four cities, with an average increase of 2.3%. Overall, the latest average marketbasket total was about 0.9% less than it was at the start of February.

In January, sales on selected items, combined with a leveling of sugar prices, caused the marketbasket bill to drop in seven cities.

The consumer who wants lower prices today, however, must shop carefully. Despite the fact that some individual items are cheaper than they were a year or even two years ago, the overall marketbasket bill has risen an average of 16% in the year ended March 1 and jumped 34% over the two years of the survey period.

No attempt was made to weigh the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what per cent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The latest AP survey showed the price of a pound of chopped chuck declined during February in eight of the 13 supermarkets checked. The average decrease was 17%. The price went up in two cities — New York and Seattle, Wash. — and was unchanged in three.

The price of chopped chuck on the latest survey date was lower in every city than it was a year ago. In 10 cities, the chopped chuck price was below what it was two years ago.

The sales on meat reflect steadily declining prices paid to farmers for their cattle as supplies increase. The American Meat Institute predicts that beef production — at a record high in 1974 — will increase another 5% this year and estimates that per capita consumption will rise to meet the supply.

The government's Consumer Price Index for January, the latest month for which statistics are available, showed that beef and veal prices declined 6% from a year earlier without adjustment for seasonal variations; hamburger was down 14.5%.

The picture for other food items is mixed. Prices continue to rise — although at a slower rate than previously — despite declines in the amount paid to farmers. The Agriculture Department said Friday, for example, that prices farmers received for raw agricultural products dropped 4% from Jan. 15 to Feb. 15, the fourth straight monthly decline.

Retailers say there are two reasons that grocery store prices are not dropping to reflect declines at the farm level: time lag and nonagricultural food costs.

ABP Checks Written After Payment Stopped

Omaha (AP)—American Beef Packers, Inc., continued to write checks for livestock three days after telling two out-of-state banks to return checks unpaid, it was reported Sunday.

A company attorney said American Beef at no time intended to defraud feeders. He said the company believed that funds would be forthcoming to cover all checks.

Investigators for the attorneys general in Iowa and Nebraska have been told that on Friday, Jan. 3, the company telephoned banks in Raleigh, N.C., and Seattle, Wash., to return checks presented for payment because money was not available to cover them.

But it was reported that confirming letters were not sent until at least Jan. 6.

Fire Guts 2 Rooms Of House

A fire gutted the kitchen and dining room of a house at 2937 N. 46th early Sunday afternoon, District Fire Chief Melvin Keller said.

He said the two-story frame house is owned by Leon A. Pike, 6800 Van Dorn, who was renting it to five young men: Tim Grady, George Sirany, Kirk Warren, Rich Batten and Guy Eno.

The five young men were moving in when the fire occurred, Keller said.

He said the fire destroyed two refrigerators, a $3,500 stereo outfit, many articles of furniture and kitchen cabinets.

He said the back porch was also damaged before the blaze was brought under control after approximately 20 minutes.

Ex-HEW Head, Wilbur Cohen, To Speak At NU

Former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Wilbur Cohen will speak at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Centennial Room of the Nebraska Union.

He will be presenting the 5th annual Gerald L. Phillippe Lecture; a series in memory of the former chairman of the General Electric Corp. who was a 1932 graduate of the University of Nebraska.

Cohen will speak on "Current Issues in Health and Welfare." He will be the guest of the College of Business Administration and will hold discussions with students and faculty.

One of the top authorities in the United States on social welfare, Cohen succeeded John W. Gardner as secretary in 1968. He has played a key role in the formulation of important social legislation, including the original Social Security Act of 1935 and the Medicare Act of 1965.

Mulder President Of Cedars

Albert Mulder was elected president of the Cedars Home for Children Foundation at its annual meeting. He succeeds Wilbur Baack, who became board chairman.

Other officers elected were Julius Ross, first vice president; Dwane Mikenson, second vice president; Charles Kroll, third vice president; Asa Waters, fourth vice president; Alfred Adams, secretary; Ced Yoder, assistant secretary; and Raymond Becker, treasurer.

Chopped Chuck Price Shows Dip

By The Associated Press

Declining beef prices caused by an increased number of cattle coming to market helped consumers save money on the family grocery bill during February, an Associated Press market-basket survey showed.

The price of chopped chuck in many cities was below what it was two years ago when consumers started planning the one-week meat boycott that began April 1.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the prices on March 1, 1973, at a supermarket in each of 13 cities and has reckoned at the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed that the overall bill went down in February in nine cities, declining an average of 2.4%. The bill went up in four cities, with an average increase of 2.3%. Overall, the latest average marketbasket total was about 0.9% less than it was at the start of February.

In January, sales on selected items, combined with a leveling of sugar prices, caused the marketbasket bill to drop in seven cities.

The consumer who wants lower prices today, however, must shop carefully. Despite the fact that some individual items are cheaper than they were a year or even two years ago, the overall marketbasket bill has risen an average of 16% in the year ended March 1 and jumped 34% over the two years of the survey period.

No attempt was made to weigh the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what per cent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The latest AP survey showed the price of a pound of chopped chuck declined during February in eight of the 13 supermarkets checked. The average decrease was 17%. The price went up in two cities — New York and Seattle, Wash. — and was unchanged in three.

The price of chopped chuck on the latest survey date was lower in every city than it was a year ago. In 10 cities, the chopped chuck price was below what it was two years ago.

The sales on meat reflect steadily declining prices paid to farmers for their cattle as supplies increase. The American Meat Institute predicts that beef production — at a record high in 1974 — will increase another 5% this year and estimates that per capita consumption will rise to meet the supply.

The government's Consumer Price Index for January, the latest month for which statistics are available, showed that beef and veal prices declined 6% from a year earlier without adjustment for seasonal variations; hamburger was down 14.5%.

The picture for other food items is mixed. Prices continue to rise — although at a slower rate than previously — despite declines in the amount paid to farmers. The Agriculture Department said Friday, for example, that prices farmers received for raw agricultural products dropped 4% from Jan. 15 to Feb. 15, the fourth straight monthly decline.

Retailers say there are two reasons that grocery store prices are not dropping to reflect declines at the farm level: time lag and nonagricultural food costs.

(3) copies of sealed proposals for office space will be received by the Commissioner of Education, Mr. Anne Campbell, at 233 South 10th Street, Lincoln, Nebraska 68502.

General specifications include: (a) approximately 50,000 net usable square feet, (b) parking space for approximately 45 cars, (c) accessibility to the public, (d) eighteen month lease agreement commencing July 1, 1975-December 31, 1976 with monthly extension, (e) proposals should include maintenance, utilities and janitorial services.

More detailed specifications may be obtained by contacting the Commissioner of Education, Mr. Anne Campbell, at 233 South 10th Street, Lincoln, Nebraska (phone: 471-2465).

Proposals must be marked "Education Office Proposal" and be received no later than 10:00 A.M. on Tuesday, March 11, 1975, at which time they will be opened. All proposals will become a part of the official file on this matter without financial obligation to the Department of Education. The Commissioner of Education reserves the right to reject any or all proposals.

The next meeting of the Nebraska Power Review Board will be March 7, 1975, in the Power Review Board's office, 1220 "J" Street, Lincoln, Nebraska. The meeting will convene at 8:15 A.M. An agenda of the said meeting will be available at the Board's office.

PLANNING STUDY REPORTS AVAILABLE

Notice is hereby given that the Lincoln Public Works Department has completed draft Planning Study Reports on the following street projects: 48th Street, M to Newton — street widening; Holdrege Street, 28th to 46th Street — street widening; 48th Street, 48th to 16th Street — intersection improvement.

These reports, required by Lincoln's Street Project Action Plan, contain suggested procedural steps, degree of study, and other information on the proposed projects.

Levels of project have been proposed for each improvement. The Level of Project indicates the procedural steps and additional study each project will require once it is approved. There are five levels of project. A through E. Level A being the most complex. Following are proposed levels for each project: 48th Street, M to Newton — Level "B"; Holdrege Street, 28th to 46th — Level "B"; 48th at Leighton Avenue — Level "C".

Neighborhood information meetings have been arranged to explain each report. Following is a schedule of those meetings: 48th, "M" to Newton — March 19, 1975, 7:30 p.m.; Holdrege, 28th to 46th — March 18, 1975, 7:30 p.m.; 48th at Leighton Avenue — March 12, 1975, 7:30 p.m.

Copies of the reports have been sent to agencies, local officials, and citizens who have expressed an interest in the project. Copies of the reports are available to citizens by contacting: Public Assistant Officer, Department of Public Works, County-City Building, Lincoln, Nebraska 68508.

Comments relative to each report may be submitted to the above address until April 3, 1975. Following that date, comments received will be reviewed and Final Planning Study Reports will be prepared.

ABP Checks Written After Payment Stopped

Omaha (AP)—American Beef Packers, Inc., continued to write checks for livestock three days after telling two out-of-state banks to return checks unpaid, it was reported Sunday.

A company attorney said American Beef at no time intended to defraud feeders. He said the company believed that funds would be forthcoming to cover all checks.

Investigators for the attorneys General in Iowa and Nebraska have been told that on Friday, Jan. 3, the company telephoned banks in Raleigh, N.C., and Seattle, Wash., to return checks presented for payment because money was not available to cover them.

But it was reported that confirming letters were not sent until at least Jan. 6.

Fire Guts 2 Rooms Of House

A fire gutted the kitchen and dining room of a house at 2937 N. 46th early Sunday afternoon, District Fire Chief Melvin Keller said.

Keller said the fire started in "a lot of debris" near the kitchen area.

He said the two-story frame house is owned by Leon A. Pike, 6800 Van Dorn, who was renting it to five young men: Tim Grady, George Sirany, Kirk Warren, Rich Batten and Guy Eno.

The five young men were moving in when the fire occurred, Keller said.

He said the fire destroyed two refrigerators, a $3,500 stereo outfit, many articles of furniture and kitchen cabinets.

He said the back porch was also damaged before the blaze was brought under control after approximately 20 minutes.

Ex-HEW Head, Wilbur Cohen, To Speak At NU

Former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Wilbur Cohen will speak at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Centennial Room of the Nebraska Union.

He will be presenting the 5th annual Gerald L. Phillippe Lecture, a series in memory of the former chairman of the General Electric Corp. who was a 1932 graduate of the University of Nebraska.

Cohen will speak on "Current Issues in Health and Welfare." He will be the guest of the College of Business Administration and will hold discussions with students and faculty.

One of the top authorities in the United States on social welfare, Cohen succeeded John W. Gardner as secretary in 1968. He has played a key role in the formulation of important social legislation, including the original Social Security Act of 1935 and the Medicare Act of 1965.

The phone calls were made after a meeting of American beef officials to deal with the problem of a cash shortage. Company accountant Lowell Smith had determined that not enough cash was on hand at the banks to cover checks which had been written to livestock feeders.

After the phone calls were made, American Beef cattle buyers, who were not notified of the action, were in the country ordering cattle, it was reported.

Thomas Carleton, former vice president of agricultural community relations at American Beef, who said he saw a copy of the letter written by Smith, said none of the buyers in the field was told to stop buying livestock on Jan. 3.

He said that American Beef President Frank West was still giving orders to buy at noon the next day.

Mulder President Of Cedars

Albert Mulder was elected president of the Cedars Home for Children Foundation at its annual meeting. He succeeds Wilbur Baack, who became board chairman.

Other officers elected were Julius Ross, first vice president; Dwane Mikenson, second vice president; Charles Kroll, third vice president; Asa Waters, fourth vice president; Alfred Adams, secretary; Ced Yoder, assistant secretary, and Raymond Becker, treasurer.

Alberta Kuklish, superintendent of Cedars Home, reported 153 different children lived at the home during 1974, the largest number receiving temporary care since 1961.

Increased food costs and cost-of-living increases in workers' salaries raised the home's operating expenses for 1974 to $124,045, an increase of $5,373 over 1973, Mrs. Kuklish said.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Monday

SCORPIO women seem to "look through me." The penetrating gaze of this woman fascinates me. At times, with the Scorpio lady, I feel as if I am engaging in a staring contest. Our eyes lock. We look at each other. I attempt to say something profound. She smiles and narrows her eyes. I melt and am carried away. I will in the name of research continue my attempts to fathom the Scorpio woman.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Look beneath surface indications. Strive for depth character and quality. Keep promise to yourself about digestive system. Meet obligations regarding property, real estate, home improvement. Cancer, Capricorn persons figure prominently.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Accent on ability to wade, wait and sense what is happening. Tread water in sense that you bid time. Keep balance, emotional and material. Avoid extremes. Detect subtle signals released by "opposition." Avoid trying to be everywhere at once.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Stick to facts. Leave sensationalism to others. Adhere to principles. Don't compromise at first, implied threat. Stand tall. One who apparently left you has only taken a short trip. A respite. A reunion is on agenda.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Change, variety, intensified relationships are featured. A look, a word could set pace. Member of opposite sex figures in big way. Gemini, Virgo persons dominate. Young person says things and expects your evaluation.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Straight talk to parent older individual could accomplish wonders. If frank, you win. If otherwise, you take backward step. Choice will be your own. Taurus, Scorpio, Libra persons figure prominently. Improve basic structure.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Telling relatives what to do would be counterproductive. You don't have all the facts. Short trips, messages, calls are spotlighted. You tend now to see in idealistic light. Key is to pull in reins and view situations, individuals as they actually exist.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Accent is on payment collection and consolidation. Draw assets together — gain overall view. Protect yourself and security. Go all out in demanding rights — assume added duties.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Cycle high, take initiative. Emphasize originality. Dance to your own tune. Get rid of burden which is not your own. See beyond the immediate — perceive potential. Aries, Libra persons are likely to be in picture.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Light is shed where previously there was only heat. You'll comprehend! Clandestine meeting affair is likely to be on agenda. Element of luck or timing rides with you. Know it and be confident. Be direct, forthright and gracious. You'll be in winner's circle!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Good lunar aspect coincides now with creativity, romance, desires and friendship. You are hit in pit of stomach by what you hear and see. Emotions take over — you make sacrifice to aid one you love. That ain't bad!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Challenge, testing and promotion are featured. Key now is versatility. Make additional contacts. Sagittarius, Gemini persons figure prominently. You are surprised by social invitation. Accept!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Favorable Moon aspect coincides now with looking beyond the immediate. Your ability to communicate is enhanced. Your charm draws attention. You are recipient of valid compliments. One at a distance calls to you. You give and receive.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are on your way to new projects and memorable month of 1975. Gemini, Sagittarius persons play important roles in your life. You have fine sense of humor, talent for writing and love of travel. Your curiosity is insatiable. You are restless, sensitive and capable of smashing language barriers.

Learn "The Truth About Astrology." Send birthdate (for our survey) and 75 cents to Omarr Booklet, The Lincoln Star, P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles, Calif. 90033. You'll open door to fascinating study and self-revelation!

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 6. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Saturday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
